Physicians Are Astonished at the Remarkable Fight the Aged Pontiff Makes Against Death.

HIS INDOMITABLE MIND RETAINS ITS MASTER HOLD

Relief Secured from an Operation Performed by Skillful Physicians—Dr. Mazzoni Believes the End Will Not Come Immediately.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Rome, July 8, 3:15 a. m.—Pope Leo is now sleeping, but his head lies uneasy on the pillow. The alleviation brought about by yesterday's operation of removing the fluid from his pleura was followed later in the evening by a restless period, and fresh doses of chloral, digitalis and caffeine had to be administered. Under their influence the pontiff fell into a slumber, which, however, was not very peaceful on account of the difficulty the patient has in breathing.

Seeing Dr. Lapponi always at his bedside, the pope, just before falling asleep, said kindly to him: "Now, it is your turn tonight. You must sleep."

Throughout the vatican absolute calm prevails tonight, the excitement of yesterday having to a great extent died out with the revival of hope after the announcement that yesterday's operation was attended with success.

Rome, July 7.—Dr. Mazzoni has been besieged by relatives and friends of the pope and by journalists, inquiring as to the result of the operation which the pope underwent today, and his prognosis of the disease. To the Associated Press correspondent he said:

"When one considers that the pope should be dead by this time, the unexpected may happen and there is still hope. His resisting so long and maintaining perfect lucidity of mind means that, notwithstanding the pneumonia, the affection of the kidneys and the difficulty of breathing, there is no poisoning of the blood. Between being at the point of death and returning to what his holiness is tonight there is certainly such a difference as to permit the most optimistic views.

"To properly understand the change which has taken place it must be considered that yesterday the conviction was so sure that he would die during the night, that, notwithstanding the contrary opinion of Dr. Lapponi, those surrounding the pope insisted on having extreme unction administered. Evil tongues even insinuate that some members of Pope Leo's immediate circle counted on the bad effects that such a function was likely to produce on a weakened organism, but the pope resisted splendidly. Indeed, he seems to have acquired fresh strength.

Death Not Imminent.

"I do not dare to say anything positive. It is very easy to be deceived, especially in the presence of such marvelous resistance. I merely venture the impression that there is a probability that the pope will die, but I do not believe death will occur yet."

The marvelous vitality and recuperative energy of the pope were never so forcibly demonstrated as by the series of events preceding, accompanying and following today's operation. Since this morning, when first informed that the operation would perhaps be necessary, his holiness began to inquire about it. Turning to Dr. Lapponi, with his usual familiarity, he asked: "Will it be painful? Remember, I cannot stand much pain."

Instead of Dr. Lapponi, Dr. Mazzoni answered: "I can assure your holiness that you will feel no pain. A little cocaine will deaden all sensation."

Pope Leo retorted at once: "Remember, you said the same thing when you extracted that cyst a few years ago." Dr. Mazzoni replied: "That operation went very well, but this can hardly be called an operation."

The pope then concluded: "Then do whatever you think best."

Showed Great Determination.

When the operation took place nobody was allowed in the room beside the doctors except Pope Leo's valet, Pio Centra. Even his nephew, Count Camillo Pecci, left the room to await with extreme anxiety in an adjoining hall the result. The doctors, desiring a strong light, had the window widely opened, but, as it faces the bed, the light offended the weak eyes of the pontiff, so that it was thought desirable that he should reverse his position. As soon as this was proposed the pope himself made a movement, showing again that spirit of activity and determination which seems constantly to inspire him. Dr. Mazzoni, however, did not give him time to leave the bed, but, taking him in his arms, literally turned the pontiff about. Pope Leo smiled and exclaimed: "Bravo, professor! I congratulate you. Although I have become so light, I must still be rather heavy."

Both the doctors laughed, and were at the same time astonished at the brightness of the pontiff when oppressed by such a dangerous illness and on the point of undergoing a urgical operation for the extreme necessity of his life.

Sat Up During Afternoon.

Pope Leo remained sitting up in bed during the whole time of the operation without need of support. When Dr. Mazzoni substituted the pravaz needle with a potain aspirator the pope did not even notice it, going through the whole affair without emitting the slightest lament and without showing any feeling of pain. He was extremely pale, almost diaphanous and somewhat tremulous.

As soon as the operation was closed his holiness felt much relieved. His eye, from an expression of languid melancholy, assumed its usual vivacity, illuminating the emaciated face. Dr. Mazzoni at once administered a cordial, which the pontiff took willingly, thanking him with a grateful look for the brave struggle to preserve his life. He afterward expressed a desire to see the liquid which had been extracted from his thorax. Both doctors assured him that his wish would be gratified later.

The pontiff then asked for minute explanations of the apparatus used in the operation. "It is a most ingenious instrument," he said, "but your hand is also so very clever. That is why the operation was successful in not giving me any pain. I thank you."

Asked to See Bulletins.

After half an hour's peaceful and apparently refreshing repose the pope awoke and inquired about the doctors. Hearing they were in the next room he said, "I thought they had gone. What do they stay here for? What are they plotting?" Dr. Lapponi, re-entering the room, said:

"We are preparing bulletins regarding the operation, saying it was successful in all respects." Dr. Mazzoni added: "We must inform the public which is waiting with such trepidation, especially as it is so easy to have inexact news spread."

"Very well," replied his holiness, "I wish to see myself these bulletins in their exact text. I have already seen and meditated on that of last night." He then went on speaking about the causes of his illness. "I would like to know," he said, "from what it comes. I think I have always followed Dr. Lapponi's advice."

"Not always, your holiness," replied Lapponi, gently.

"Well," retorted Pope Leo, "You could not expect to remedy my old age."

After a short silence the pope, turning to Dr. Mazzoni, said: "In the last consistory there appeared Cardinal Taliani, who comes from the Marches. Do you know him?"

Cheerful in Death's Shadow.

"Yes, your holiness, I know him. I hope that that will not be your last consistory."

"I am afraid so," sighed the pope sadly. After which his head fell upon the pillow as though extremely tired, being again the prey of exhaustion. The happy and cheerful expressions of the pontiff at the moment when he was in the very shadow of death astonished the doctors. The pope himself seems to glory in his ability to present a calm and bright demeanor, and particularly asked the doctors to tell him about the state of his mind. Accordingly the doctors have freely discussed the cheerfulness of the venerable patient, repeating the details of his quick sallies as showing the activity of his mind.

It is hoped that the pope's strength will be maintained as he has taken somewhat more nourishment, seeming to prefer the yolk of an egg with some small sips of stimulant, especially brandy.

Dr. Mazzoni assisted by Dr. Lapponi's son, who is also a doctor, has finished the analysis of the liquid extracted from the pope's pleura. The color is orange red and it is prevalently composed of blood with coagulated fibrine without pus.

IN DISGUST RAMPOLLI QUITS WORK AT VATICAN

PARIS, July 8.—According to a dispatch from Rome to the Echo de Paris, Cardinal Oreglia has ordered the apartments in the vatican, which are occupied by the camerlingo, which post he himself holds during an interregnum, to be repaired. Cardinal Rampolli on learning this declared the action not to be decent, while the pope was living, and ceased his own work. The incident has caused much comment.

DAY OF SADNESS FOR JEANNETTE

Funerals of the Victims of Sunday's Flood Held in the Glass City.

HEARSE SEEN OFTEN

The Rev. F. W. Boettner Says God Sent Waters as a Warning to Wicked of the Town.

MORE INTERMENTS TODAY

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Jeannette, Pa., July 7.—Vividly was the calamity of Sunday impressed upon the people of Jeannette today. There was not an hour that at least one hearse was not going along the street, conveying to some grief-stricken home, or to the cemetery, the remains of a victim of the Brush Creek valley disaster. There were three funerals today, and on the morrow the others will occur.

The first utterance from the pulpit on the disaster was heard this afternoon in the little Free Methodist church in West Jeannette. The Rev. F. W. Boettner, during the services held over the remains of Mrs. Elisabeth Shrader, said that God had caused the flood to come as a warning that the wickedness in Jeannette must cease. His simple words had a mighty impression upon the people assembled in the church.

Early in the morning services were held in the Catholic church over the remains of Sophia and Mary Gillespie, two little Grapeville girls that lost their lives in the flood. Two white hearses conveyed the two white caskets to the church. As the funeral party was going to the cemetery, a hearse bearing the remains of John McCann passed on the way to the former home of the flood victim in Fort Pitt.

Joy and Sadness.

While the two white hearses were being driven to the Pennsylvania station this morning to receive the bodies of the Gillespie children, their wheels almost rubbed those of a carriage passing in the opposite direction. In the latter vehicle sat a bride and groom. The scene seemed so out of place. Some superstitious persons remarked that it meant bad luck for the bridal party.

Funeral services were conducted in Penn over the remains of James Westwood. The volunteer firemen turned out in uniform to pay a last tribute to their dead comrade.

In addition to the funerals the bodies of all the victims were taken from the morgue to homes of relatives. This caused the constant passing to and fro of the hearses. In life Henry Fink and his wife had a host of friends and their death has been the cause of much sorrow. Their bodies were taken to the home of Mrs. Fink a mother, Mrs. Frank Doulin, this afternoon. Since the finding of the remains yesterday, Mrs. Doulin has been prostrated and a doctor has been with her most of the time. The two coffins were placed side by side in the parlor in which the couple were married. Hundreds called at the house this afternoon and evening to pay a last tribute.

Sad Little Party.

Sophia and Mary Gillespie were the children of Polish parents, whose home is in Grapeville. Sophia was 7 years old and Mary 12. They were carried to death by the waters of Brush creek. This morning a train at 9:30 o'clock brought the two white caskets containing the bodies to the Jeannette station. The father and mother and several friends accompanied the remains. Two white hearses carried the bodies to Sacred Heart church and a couple of carriages conveyed the mourners.

At the church the Rev. Fathers Lindner

DOG TAKES SMALLPOX FROM MASTER'S FAMILY

CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—A dog belonging to a family that has been ill with smallpox is under observation at the detention hospital. He has symptoms of smallpox, his hide being covered with positives. The case is quite rare to medical practice. To satisfy himself as to whether dogs are susceptible to the disease, the health officer will experiment with other dogs and try to give them the disease. The experiments will begin in a few days.

FAILURE TO OBEY KILLED 23 PERSONS

Terrible Wreck Between Lynchburg and Charlottesville.

19 DEAD ARE NEGROES

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Rockfish, Va., July 7.—Twenty-three persons, 19 of whom are colored, were killed in a collision here at 3:12 this afternoon between a passenger train and a local freight on the Midland division of the Southern railway.

The passenger train had left Washington at 11:15 a. m. It consisted of an express, baggage, two day coaches and two Pullmans. In the forward day coach, which was occupied exclusively by negroes, the heavy loss of life occurred. It was completely telescoped and not one of the occupants escaped injury.

Among the dead are Engineer Davis of the passenger train and Engineer McCormick, who was riding on the train with him. The latter was going to Charlottesville to take out a train.

The wreck was caused by the inability of the local freight to reach a siding in time to give the passenger train a clear track. Engineer Hale had orders to this effect, but was six minutes behind his time when the passenger train came along running about 50 miles an hour. The place where the wreck occurred is midway between Lynchburg and Charlottesville and aid was rushed from both these points as rapidly as possible.

The impact of the collision was terrific. Both engines were completely demolished, as were the first three coaches of the passenger train. None of the occupants of the Pullmans was seriously hurt, but the slaughter was terrific in the negro coach.

EARNINGS SHOW SMALL SHRINKAGE

Steel Corporation Issues Statement of Operations for the Last Quarter.

VOLUME OF BUSINESS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, July 7.

Earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the second quarter of the year were announced today after the monthly meeting of the directors. The total for the three months ending June 30 last is $36,499,528, as compared with $37,662,052 for the same quarter a year ago. The dividend on the preferred will be payable on August 15, and the common will be payable on September 30.

The statement issued today shows a surplus of undivided profits for the six months of $17,037,041. For the same period a year ago the surplus was $20,463,323. In addition reference is made to the volume of business on hand on the first of the present month. The unfilled orders on hand amount to 4,806,378 tons on July 1, 1903, as compared with 4,741,963 on July 1, 1902. This is a shrinkage in the volume of unfilled business of about 75,000 tons.

No reference is made in the statement today in regard to the interest on the new 5 per cent bonds issued in place of preferred stock and for additional cash, except a footnote which explained that the dividend on the preferred stock for the six months, estimated at $17,850,880, might be adjusted on account of the conversion of some of the preferred stock into bonds.

The following table gives the amount of earnings of the steel corporation for the last six months, as compared with the earnings for the corresponding period a year ago:

	1903.	1902.	Decrease.
January	$ 7,428,775	$ 8,561,616	$1,132,841
February	7,750,561	7,678,783	81,778
March	9,912,671	10,155,366	222,287
April	10,905,203	12,320,796	1,415,593
May	12,744,578	13,179,600	870,600
June	12,850,000	12,220,502	629,498

The statement takes into account the amount received for sinking funds of subsidiary corporations, amounting to $729,795. In addition $6,695,504 is set aside as a fund for depreciation and reserve. When these amounts are deducted a balance of $37,182,000 is left for interest on the bonds, sinking fund and dividends of the preferred and common stock.

MOTHER OF A FLOOD VICTIM DROPS DEAD

FATHER PROSTRATED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Greensburg, Pa., July 7.—Overcome with grief over the death of her daughter, Mrs. Kate Donnelly of Jeannette, in Sunday's disaster at Oakford park, Mrs. Martha Garvin, the wife of George Garvin, of near Greensburg, dropped dead this morning.

Mrs. Garvin for some time has been subject to fainting spells, caused by a weak heart. When the news of her daughter's death reached her she swooned, remaining in a comatose state for several hours. Upon regaining consciousness she gave way to grief so poignant that the heart action was greatly affected. Last night she passed through convulsions.

The remains of her daughter were brought to Greensburg this morning for interment, and the mother was sitting by a window where she could see the approach of the funeral procession. When it came in sight she fell over dead.

Mr. Garvin is prostrated over the double tragedy and is under the care of a physician. Mrs. Garvin was 56 years old. The mother and daughter will be buried at the same hour tomorrow afternoon.

ATTORNEY GENERAL KNOX STARTS ON VACATION

Summer Home at Beverly Farm, Mass., Is an Ideal Country Dwelling Place.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Attorney General Knox has joined his family at Beverly Farm, Mass., and will remain there the greater part of the summer to get the rest that he needs after a winter of hard work.

"Pine Pitch Hall," the Beverly Farm home of Attorney General Knox and family this summer, is a fine place. The house has 25 rooms, and is surrounded by extensive grounds. The house sets back fully 50 feet from the street and is reached by a curving driveway flanked by a terrace ornamented with shrubs and flowers. From the house to the beach is only five minutes' walk. Splendid groves extend in the rear and give the effect of country, as well as shore. The dining room is superb, and its conspicuous feature is a large Dutch fireplace. The library is done in mahogany. There is a spacious veranda on the first floor, which is inclosed and used as an extra dining room in midsummer.

STATE COUNCIL AT OYSTER BAY

Hay, Hanna, Fairbanks and Kearns Are the President's Guests.

RUSSIA IS DISCUSSED

Secretary of State Consults on Questions of Grave National Import.

HANNA STARTS ON A CRUISE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 7.—Secretary of State John Hay is a guest of President Roosevelt tonight at Sagamore Hill. Matters of grave importance to this country in its international relations were under consideration during the afternoon and evening.

The conclusions reached at the conference are not disclosed, both the president and Secretary Hay regarding it as inexpedient at this time to discuss for publication the details of their work. To two subjects of serious concern most of their attention was turned. They considered in all its phases the Russian situation, particularly with respect to the Baal Beith petition, which, it has been determined, would be forwarded to the Russian government, and the Alaskan boundary question, which next month is to be taken up for what is hoped may be final adjustment by the American and British commission in London.

Secretary Hay arrived here from Newport, R. I., where he has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, at 12:16 o'clock this afternoon. He was accompanied by Senator Fairbanks of Indiana. Senator Thomas Kearns of Utah arrived on the same train, although he did not meet the other two until they alighted at the Oyster Bay station.

Hanna Party Arrives.

The party was met by one of the executive carriages and driven direct to Sagamore Hill. Prior to their arrival at the president's home, Senator Hanna of Ohio, accompanied by Mrs. Hanna and their friend, Miss Phelps, and Mr. and Mrs. Clement A. Griscom and Miss Griscom, had reached Sagamore Hill on the yacht Alvina.

It was a distinguished party which assembled soon afterward at luncheon around the hospitable board of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. It included, besides those already named, the president's house guests and Cecil Wellmore Carryl, the author.

After the luncheon President Roosevelt discussed with Secretary Hay and Senators Fairbanks, Hanna and Kearns the Alaskan boundary matter. Senator Fairbanks was a member of the joint high commission which had that question under consideration several years ago, and the president and secretary took this opportunity to go over the matter with him. It is understood that the papers in the American case have been made up, and the case is ready for presentation.

Hanna Is Interviewed.

Soon afterward Senator Hanna and his party boarded their yacht and sailed for Newport. Senator Hanna will cruise along the North Atlantic coast for several weeks in the Alvina, going as far north as Bar Harbor, Maine.

Senator Hanna assured the newspaper men that his visit to the president had no political significance. His health, he said, was getting better, but when one of his proudest interviewers inquired if he thought he would be able to manage the next Republican national campaign he replied laughingly:

"Now you are getting inquisitive. Ask ly that is a matter which has not been determined, so far as I know. That question of the national chairmanship can be determined only by future events."

When the other visitors had gone, the president and Secretary Hay continued their conference until far into the night. It was noted as a bit significant that they should begin their conference on the very day the Russian ambassador, Count Cassini, sailed for home. It is regarded as likely that some developments in the Russian situation may be expected in a few days.

GRAVE FEARS FOR THE SAFETY OF HER SON

Mrs. Mary Galvin's Visit in McKeesport Is Interrupted by Jeannette Tragedy.

Mrs. Mary Galvin of Greensburg, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. John Penrod of McKeesport, left yesterday for her home to learn the fate of her son, William, who was at Jeannette during the storm at which many lives were lost. Mrs. Galvin has not heard from him since, in answer to inquiries made by telegraph, and she fears he may have been killed.

William Landis returned to McKeesport from Jeannette yesterday, with his brother Frank, who was in the ill-fated town when the flood occurred. Fearing that his brother had shared the fate of many others, Mr. Landis hurried to Jeannette, where he found his brother safe. Landis says the searchers are looking for 5 bodies in Kent's family, who are lost, although their names are not known.

PNEUMONIA EPIDEMIC.

Twenty Cases Have Already Been Reported to the Jeannette Authorities.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—An epidemic of pneumonia now threatens this vicinity, and serious consequences are feared. Hundreds of people who were compelled to flee from their homes or were caught in the flood at Oakford park Sunday were rather scantily clothed for cold and shelter for several hours after, and in many cases have not yet secured proper attention. The exposures have resulted in much illness and a majority of the victims are threatened with pneumonia or already have well developed cases of the malady.

It was stated today by citizens who had canvassed the borough in search of missing people that there are at least 20 cases of the disease now in Jeannette, and unless unusual precaution is taken there will be many new cases within a short time.

COULD NOT REACH MOTHER.

Two South Jeannette Girls, Who Were Missing, Have Returned.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. John Case of South Jeannette spent Sunday night in agony, through fear that both her daughters had been lost in the flood, notwithstanding that both girls were within sight of her the greater portion of the night. The young ladies left their home Sunday afternoon to go to Oakford park, but were detained by the heavy rain before reaching it and after a long wait started to return home and came within a short distance of the house when the water rushing down the streets filled the entire neighborhood. The space intervening between where their home and where they stood was flooded and their mother watched for the return of the girls, who were on the other side square waving to her in order to let her know they were safe. Several times she saw the signals and asked a neighbor woman to see if she could distinguish who the girls were. The neighbor thought they were the sisters who came to let her know they were safe and not until yesterday morning, when both girls returned home, did their mother know they were still living.

SUICIDE FEARED.

Believed Delehanty Jumped from Bridge at Fort Erie.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7.—(Special.)—There is no doubt that Edward Delehanty, the great batter and right fielder of the Washington team, who has been missing since early in July, has committed suicide. Delehanty had been drinking heavily at Detroit and the last seen of him was at Fort Erie, Ont., on July 2, when he met a bridge tender at that place and declared he was going to commit suicide. A search was instituted and the description was sent to jump from the bridge. His dress suit case was recovered and it contained baseball ticket No. 26, which has been ascertained to have been the ticket held by Delehanty.

Inquiry here shows that Delehanty had written letters in which he had expressed the utmost hopelessness of life and himself outside and spoke of a benefit policy which should be made payable to his daughter. In baseball circles here no doubt is expressed as to the suicide of the lost batter.

PICNIC OR DEATH.

Annie Brill Swallowed Acid After Being Disappointed by a Young Man.

Annie Brill, 18 years old, visiting the home of Joseph Van Horn, No. 175 Mayflower street, took a dose of acid early last night, it is thought with suicidal intent.

Gloney Hilty had made an engagement to take her to a picnic at Conneaut Lake today, but last night Hilty called and told her he could not take her.

After Hilty left the young woman went to her room. She took a bottle she had brought with her from Germany, and putting a few drops of it in water drank it. Soon afterwards she was seen to be ill and Dr. R. C. M. Stewart was sent for. He gave the woman the best attention he could, but he did not know the kind of acid she had taken. Although in a serious condition, the girl will recover.

HOMESTEAD BOARD ELECTS TEACHERS

The Homestead school board last evening elected the following teachers for the High school: Principal, Mrs. L. P. Williams, salary $100 a month; associate, Prof. Bogrand, $80 a month; second associate, Prof. Bonner, $85 a month. Miss Grace Neale was re-elected and the election of Miss Sarah Covert was held over at the request of the latter's desire a male teacher in her place. Prof. E. W. McKenny was re-elected principal of the C. M. Schwab manual training school, with W. A. Hallman as assistant. Miss Grace Austin is head of the department of domestic science and Miss Mollie Roberts, Morgan, her assistant. Mrs. Lawton is retained as drawing teacher and Miss Helen Baker as musical instructor. The board decided to admit pupils to the Bethwah school from the sixth grade next year.

EAST END MERCHANTS AT CONNEAUT TODAY

East End and Wilkinsburg merchants will close their stores today and hold their annual outing at Conneaut lake. Judging from the number of tickets sold already 2,000 people will attend. It was found necessary yesterday to add one more train, making four in all. Commencing with today the merchants will give their employes a half-holiday every Wednesday during the summer.

DIPLOMATS WILL HONOR POPE LEO

Regardless of Their Religion, They Will Attend Mass in Case of His Death.

WATCHING ITALY AND FRANCE

Attitude of These Two Powers Is Subject of Speculation at the Capital—Function Will Be Held in St. Matthew's Church, Washington.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7.

One of the features of the death of Pope Leo will be a solemn mass of requiem at which all the diplomatic corps in this country will assemble. This will break into many summer holiday plans. When King Humbert was assassinated in August, 1900, none of the diplomats made their private arrangements an excuse to avoid the journey to Washington to participate in the solemn requiem held in St. Matthew's church, which is the diplomatic place of worship in this city for Roman Catholic functions. Should the pontiff die, the Austrian-Hungarian embassy and the Spanish and Belgian legations will undoubtedly go into mourning for at least 30 days, and possibly for the full period fixed by the Sacred college of the vatican. The Italian legation at the time of the death of Pope Pius IX. was already in mourning for the death of King Victor Emmantel, and it was impossible to observe what attitude the kingdom of Italy would assume during the mourning for the religious head of the race.

Signor des Planches, the present ambassador, is on singularly friendly terms with the church. One of his secretaries is the nephew of Cardinal Macchi. His actions in the premises will, however, be ruled by orders from the Italian foreign office. The attitude of France will also be interesting, but it is not thought that the present strained relations of the government and the vatican will be allowed to interfere with the outward marks of respect which would be expected from Catholic France.

Every European government, with the exception of Italy, maintains diplomatic relations with the holy see. Even Russia keeps an accredited diplomatic agent at the vatican. All of these, regardless of religious convictions, will take cognizance of his death with the same honors as are usual toward any other reigning prince.

Among the speculations heard in clerical circles today is that if Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli should be the next pope, Archbishop Ireland will be among the first prelates raised to the cardinalate. Should the successor of Pope Leo be Cardinal Gotti or any other representative of the religious orders Archbishop Ireland's chances would be extremely poor.

HOMESTEAD YOUNG MAN SAVED HIS COMPANION

Charles Murdock, Who Was Believed Dead, Turns Up After Thrilling Experience.

Charles Murdock of No. 138 Fourth avenue, Homestead, who, with Miss Mamie Plegg of Grapeville, was thought to have been drowned, yesterday turned up at his home alive, but suffering greatly from shock from his thrilling experience in the flood. Mr. Murdock and Miss Plegg left Homestead Sunday afternoon for Grapeville. Miss Plegg had been visiting at the young man's home, and when she started for Grapeville he offered to accompany her home.

Mr. Murdock yesterday said that he and Miss Plegg arrived at the latter's home just as the rain started. Shortly afterward Miss Plegg's mother noticed the water coming down the valley. As the Plegg home was located in the direct path of the flood, Mr. and Mrs. Plegg, Miss Plegg and Murdock rushed from the house in the hope of reaching the hillside, about 200 yards distant, before the crest of the flood reached them. The girl's parents reached the hillside in safety, but Mr. Murdock remained behind to assist Miss Plegg and they were overtaken by the water.

Mr. Murdock said the water came with such force that both he and Miss Plegg were swept off their feet and carried in an instant along with the water and debris. Young Murdock struggled for some time in the water before he was able to catch a passing log and luckily the force of the water sent them toward the bank some distance below where the girl's parents found safety. Miss Plegg also suffered greatly from fright and the shock, but her condition when Mr. Murdock left Grapeville was not considered serious.

RIEZZO SAVED CARPET AND A ROCKING CHAIR

With His Family He Is Now Living Under the Shade of a Tree.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—Strange were the vicissitudes of Dominico Riezzo, who lost everything he possessed in the inundation of the Bull creek hollow. Today with his wife and six children the man was found living under the hospitable branches of a large tree near the site of their former home. A rickety rocking chair and a piece of ragged carpet—the only belongings left to the unfortunate family, were gathered there and cherished as if for mementoes of their prosperous days. Riezzo's house had been almost paid for, and he is left with nothing but the swampy plot on which he had built his little home.

Riezzo's wife and children had started to visit Oakford park a short time before the cloudburst and escaped. Riezzo and his cousin were in the house alone. When the flood swept down the hollow the men fled to the roof, and floated down stream some distance. Their own house was a portable one, and when the house suddenly collided with another building the men sprang to the other wreck. They they removed their shoes and tying them with strings about their necks they attempted to swim ashore. For awhile they did very well, and then the cousin lost heart and began to cry. About this time the firemen's rescuing party espied the men and brought both safely ashore. Riezzo's family is being cared for by the relief committee.

REPAIRING RAILROAD.

GREENSBURG, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—The greatest damage sustained by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in the county was on the Alexandria branch, caused by the breaking of the lower dam at the No. 1 plant of the Jamison Coal & Coke Company. At Winthrop station the roadbed was washed out for several hundred yards. At Greenwald two big engines were standing with the track washed out on either side of them. Freight cars on the sidings along the branch were overturned.

One hundred and fifty men were sent out from Harrisburg yesterday afternoon under charge of John K. Johnston, resident engineer. This number was increased be 200 of Contractor H. S. Kerbaugh's men, and fully 500 are now working on the road. A gang of men worked all night, unloading cinders and ballast. It will require the rest of the week before the short stretch of road from Crabtree to New Alexandria can be put in operation. All of the men are quartered in passenger coaches at Donohoe station, and their meals are furnished them by farmers' wives.

HERO AND HEROINE IN THE BRUSH CREEK VALLEY FLOOD

Ella Bridge, the Heroine of the Brush Creek Valley Flood.

Lewis W. Griggs of Jeannette, Who Rescued Ten People.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—The heroine of the Brush creek flood is Ella Bridge, the eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ellen Bridge of Jeannette. Little Miss Bridge with her sister, Celia, Sunday afternoon was visiting her grandfather, Levi Baker, whose house sits in the hollow on the outskirts of the town. Mr. Baker is a veteran of the Civil war, and, suffering from the results of a wound received in the battle of Drury's Bluff, in 1864, he lies in bed paralyzed.

When the storm came up and Brush creek flooded its banks, Mr. Baker's house was caught in the swirling torrent. In a few minutes the water covered the first floor and the flood swept down the valley, leaving the house standing like an islet in the middle of a lake.

Higher the floor grew and Mrs. Baker, the aged wife of the veteran, waded ashore. Suddenly, when the dam burst and a great swell rode down the valley, 12 feet of water surrounded the house. Friends came with a raft, hastily made from the refuse of a lumber yard, to rescue the remaining members of the family. To move Mr. Baker and get the others out before the raft would capsize was impossible. Mr. Baker begged the others to leave, and the children were picked up.

But Miss Ella refused. "I won't leave my dear grandpapa," she said. "He's always been so good to me." The little girl was obdurate and screamed when strong arms attempted to pick her from her place beside her grandfather's bed. Finally the raft was launched and the others of the family were carried ashore. Then a stronger raft was built and ropes were thrown out in order to be ready for immediate rescue in case the building collapsed.

The water rose within a few inches of the second floor, but the house remained firm on its foundations. Mr. Baker and his brave little granddaughter remained in the room until 10 o'clock last night. At that hour the rescuers who had been watching returned to the building and the family was reunited at midnight. Mr. Baker was a member of Company A, Fifty-fifth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers. He has resided in Westmoreland county all his life.

JOHN P. COWAN.

A DAY OF SADNESS FOR JEANNETTE

and P. Beno were awaiting the arrival of the sad party. A few people had gathered at the church, but the assemblage seemed but a handful in the big auditorium. The two caskets were placed just outside the entrance to the sanctuary, and the requiem mass was offered by Father Lindner. Occasionally above the singing of the choir could be heard the moans of the bereaved mother. The white coffins were again placed in the hearse. While this was being done by the undertaker the father and mother stood close by watching each movement until the hearse doors were closed. Then they were led to their carriage and the drive to Holy Cross cemetery begun. The sexton performed the last services at the grave.

Punished for Her Wickedness.

"Some of you look on the disaster of Sunday as an accident. I want to remind you that you are not living in a world of chance. God holds the reins in His hands. If it had not been the will of God to permit the flood to come in Brush Creek valley He would have turned it in some other direction or prevented it altogether. Don't lay it to blind chance.

"God wants the hearts and the ears of the people of Jeannette. I want to say to you that this is a warning against the iniquities of the people of Jeannette. The town is full of iniquity from one end to the other. God wants your attention. We must say amen to what He has done. If God sees that good can be accomplished He will remove a few men to call attention to the fact that He is supreme and your lives should be used to His glory. We of Jeannette desecrate the day of God. It is desecrated in every corner of the town. I say to you men of Jeannette that God will not hold His arms and permit Sunday ball playing and Sunday clubs to continue in the town. If you will not learn through love then God visits His judgment upon you.

Reason to Be Thankful.

"You have reason to thank God that any of Jeannette is left. Had He allowed the waters of Brush creek to flow over the railroad embankment east of town and the waters of Bull creek to float over the railroad tracks at the station, in the manifestation of His anger against Jeannette, what would have been left of our town? We ought to go down on our knees and thank Him for His mercy."

The above quotations are from a talk delivered by the Rev. F. W. Boettner, pastor of the West Jeannette Free Methodist church, during the services held over the remains of Mrs. Elizabeth Shrader. The little church was well filled with friends of the family. When the pastor had finished his talk there were few dry eyes in the church.

Mrs. Shrader had lived with her husband, Cyrus, on the banks of Brush creek, within a stone's throw of the plain little house of worship. Sunday afternoon her husband was away from home, and when the waters rose about the Shrader cottage friends tried to induce the aged woman to go to a place of safety. She refused. Repeatedly she was warned. Even when the house began to rock Mrs. Shrader declined to leave. She opened the door and waved to her friends. The next minute the torrent carried the dwelling away, and she was never seen alive again. As the preacher told this story today his voice was almost drowned by the cries of the sorrowing relatives as this vivid picture was recalled to them.

Service Was Simple.

As the funeral party entered the church several young ladies started to sing a hymn. The stolid old German, who had been robbed of his wife by the flood, slowly walked up the aisle behind the plain black coffin, with the simple inscription, "Mother." He did not shed a tear, but his face told of the anguish he suffered.

Following an old-time custom, none of the men removed their hats during the service.

When the body had been placed in front of the exceedingly plain altar the choir sang "Rock of Ages." This was followed by "Asleep in Jesus." The preacher made what he called a plain talk and the friends were given a last opportunity to look into the face of the dead. Then the funeral party started on its journey of five miles over the hills to Harold's burial grounds.

The numerous funerals developed the fact that there is a Funeral association in Jeannette with a membership of 1,400. The fee is 22 cents and each time an adult member dies there is a general assessment of 12 cents. For each child the assessment is 6 cents. Each member is assured a $100 funeral. Mrs. Katherine Donnelly was the only member of the association to lose her life in the flood.

AID IS BEING RUSHED TO FLOOD SUFFERERS

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—The appeal for aid sent out by the citizens of this place yesterday met with a hearty response and tonight the relief committee is confident that the amount asked for, $5,000, in addition to large quantities of clothing and groceries, will be received within the week and that Jeannette will then be able to care for all the flood sufferers. The first assistance to be received came early today, when a message was received from M. H. Pickering, the Pittsburgh furniture dealer, stating that a carload of furniture, cooking utensils and household goods had been shipped by him to the flood sufferers.

The furniture will be distributed tomorrow. Another Pittsburgher, who asked that his name be withheld, sent $100, and Diamond Savings and Trust Company of Greensburg sent $100. E. B. Wright of Pittsburgh sent $10. The fund tonight amounts to $2,000.

The appeals for aid to the relief committee started in earnest early this morning and all day their headquarters in Hugus' drug store was thronged by sufferers.

Fifty Families Cared For.

Nearly 50 families have been provided with money, clothing or groceries, and many more applications are in the hands of the committee. Many families were visited today and reports of their conditions sent to the committee.

Richard Smith, a colored man, his wife and family of 12 children were found to be in destitute circumstances and were given aid.

A joint meeting of the relief committees of Jeannette, Penn and Manor was held here today and they decided to act together and will make headquarters here. The money and supplies received will be distributed as fast as received and in this manner it is hoped to avoid real suffering.

The committee from Penn reported that furniture and household goods were needed worse than money by residents of that place, as nearly all the flooded houses were completely cleaned out of all furniture.

Friction in Committee.

Some friction in the relief committee developed today. At the citizens meeting yesterday Roland Merrell, president of the Jeannette National bank, was elected treasurer. Later the relief committee selected Councilman W. C. Koerbel to care for the outside funds. The Merrell faction says this was done because there is a feeling among opposition bankers that the Jeannette National will get too much advertising. As a result of the controversy, there was little money collected today. It is believed that the differences will be adjusted. This statement to the public, signed by Mr. Merrell as treasurer, was given out tonight:

Five miles of a populous valley containing 12,000 people have been devastated by the flood of Saturday. Jeannette, its suburbs, Penn station and Manor have suffered particularly. Scores of families are homeless; many have lost everything and disaster is widespread.

Hundreds are in need of the necessities of life. The people of Jeannette have responded nobly to the call for aid. Nine hundred and seventy-five dollars was subscribed at the citizens' meeting held the morning after the flood. Jeannette's industries are at a standstill and will be for months. The needs of the situation cannot be met by local generosity.

Outside assistance must be had and promptly. Three citizens will share in the aid rendered. Hundreds of these people cannot help themselves. We ask your generous cooperation. J. L. QUINN.

James T. Kennedy of Penn tonight requested The Gazette to publish this statement:

The misery caused by Sunday's flood is coming to light in earnest today. At first it was thought that we could take care of the victims, but the task is too great. Hundreds of people are penniless and you will do a great good if you announce to your readers that contributions of money, clothing or household goods will be thankfully received and promptly distributed by the authorities of Penn station. Contributions should be sent to George Weitz, chairman relief committee, Penn station, Pa.

HAS NOT FIXED TIME.

Coroner Has Not Decided When Inquest Will Be Held.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—Coroner Charles A. Wynne remained here the greater portion of today rendering what assistance he could to those who lost relatives or friends in the flood. He has not yet set a date for the inquest.

What is feared is a reproduction of serum in the pleura, in which case the operation will be repeated in about two days.

RECONCILED TO DEATH, POPE HOPED FOR LIFE

In Spite of Serene Submission the Pontiff Expressed a Desire for Recovery.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 7.—The pope this morning expressed the desire of again taking communion, notwithstanding the fact that he received the last communion on Sunday and extreme unction yesterday evening. Mgr. Marsolini, one of the chamberlains, therefore performed both ceremonies. The pope showed great serenity, repeating that he felt quite prepared to leave the world. In spite of this he now and then expressed the hope that he might recover. The pontiff afterwards received his niece and Count Canali, her husband, who came purposely from their home in the country to see him again.

The pontiff was today greatly interested in what the press said about him, asked to be informed regarding the printed opinions and views expressed and showed satisfaction upon learning that throughout the world general regret at his condition was manifested without distinction of creed or politics. After last night's collapse, as though aware for the first time of his danger, the pope literally forced himself to take a greater quantity of nourishment.

Today the authorities inaugurated more stringent resolutions for the preservation of order and quiet at the vatican. By the pope's express desire all his relations have been to see him today. The scene was most touching. His nephews, to whom he has been a real father, entered the room sobbing. His holiness soothed them, saying:

"I feel the moment approaching when I must leave you. Say our last good-by. I am about to enter eternal life. But do not grieve for me. I am about to enter my real happiness."

Before leaving the room they all kissed the hand of the pontiff reverently, fearing it was for the last time.

PARIS, July 7.—All day callers in quest of news of the pope's condition flocked to the papal nunciature in the Rue de l'Elysee. Prayers were offered up early this morning in all the Catholic churches. There were frequent celebrations of the mass.

The register of the nunciature is rapidly filling up with names, including those of Mme. Loubet, former Queen Isabella of Spain, number of diplomats and many official and political personages.

POPE STOOD OPERATION WITH GREAT FORTITUDE

His Holiness Was Much Benefitted by the Skill of His Physicians.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 7.—The pope was operated upon today and his general condition improved somewhat. The following bulletin was afterward issued:

"The test puncture of the pleura has been made and 800 grams of liquid have been taken off. A rapid examination showed that some mucuous was rattling in the lung which was originally affected.

"The pope underwent the operation with courage. His general condition is now better and he is resting."

Shortly before the operation of puncturing the pleura this afternoon the pope remarked to those around him:

"I thank God that He has vouchsafed to me the boon of being able to say goodby to all. I love you all, but I am tired and am glad to go."

After the operation Dr. Mazzoni said the danger remained imminent, but the illness from which the pope was suffering was full of surprises. His holiness might even live three days longer.

The calmness with which the pope underwent the ordeal of the operation was one of the most remarkable evidences of fortitude that he had given in his whole life. After a lengthy conference the doctors concluded it was advisable to operate for pleurisy, the primary purpose being to explore the affected parts. They hoped incidentally to draw off the collected fluid. When their determination was communicated to the pontiff he showed no anxiety; on the contrary, he submitted very willingly, expressing the hope that good results might come, recalling the successful results following Dr. Mazzoni's operation some years ago for cyst. As the operation was not of a capital nature, not suggesting the use of chloroform or other anaesthetics, the pope lay on his bed with his left side exposed below the arm pit to the waist. Only the two doctors and two personal attendants were within the chamber.

The immediate direction of the operation devolved upon Dr. Mazzoni, who handled the instruments and made the preparatory arrangements. First a slight incision was made in the side of the venerable patient. A solution of alcohol and corrosive sublimate was then injected and cocaine was used to deaden the sensation. The point of operation was just below the seventh rib and the operation itself consisted in the insertion of a large Pravaz needle syringe. This penetrated to the region where the matter had accumulated and by means of suction slowly drew it off. Under the skillful guidance of Dr. Mazzoni the operation scarcely occupied over four minutes.

The pope manifested no pain whatever, neither was there the slightest quiver from moral dread of the operation. In the language of one of the doctors, the cocaine so deadened the parts that the pontiff felt no more than a slight pin prick.

So soon as the liquid was drawn off by the suction needle the patient felt great relief, owing to the removal of the pressure of the liquid on the lung, and simultaneously the doctors could hear air passing through that zone which this morning was declared to be impervious owing to congestion. From a pathological standpoint the free passage of air was considered satisfactory, but more so were the results, the mental and physical relief which it brought to the pope. He immediately showed an exhilarating spirit. With a slight smile on his face he whispered his thankfulness and bestowed benedictions on the doctors bending over him. The pontiff even stroked Dr. Mazzoni's face, in the benevolent way which is characteristic of him. Then he rearranged his position, closing his eyes, and in a few minutes passed into a calm, healthful sleep.

The doctors remained by the pope's side, noting the regularity of his breathing, and pronounced the operation to have been in every way successful and leaving no perceptible adverse results.

ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON OVER POPE'S CONDITION

Papal Legation Receives Cable Dispatches from Rome at Regular Intervals.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Little or no hope of Pope Leo's recovery is entertained at the papal legation in this city. Mgr. Falconio, the personal representative of the pope to the United States, telegraphed acting papal delegate, Mgr. Marchetti, here today from Detroit that he leaves there tonight and arrives here tomorrow afternoon. Cable dispatches are received at the papal legation at regular intervals from Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, giving the latest news from the vatican regarding the condition of the pope. Mgr. Marchetti received the following cablegram this morning:

"Rome, July 7.—Holy father is no worse today. Condition continues very serious, without, however, making us lose every hope.

(Signed) "Cardinal Rampolla,
"Secretary of State."

The papal legation is a very modest dwelling house. Just now there is an almost constant stream of callers from the members of the Roman Catholic clergy, the members of the faculty of the Catholic university and the Roman Catholic laity. Mgr. Marchetti, the acting papal delegate, is not able to extend any comforting information to solicitous inquirers. Mgr. Marchetti is personally deeply affected by the serious returns from Rome as he was one of the favorites of Pope Leo and had his last conference with the pope shortly before being assigned to the legation here from Rome.

Members of the diplomatic corps, especially those representing the Latin countries and governments where the Roman Catholic church is the representative church, are deeply concerned and are among the most anxious callers at the papal legation. Many tributes are heard here from diplomats regarding Pope Leo's great services to the world as a peacemaker between nations and as a diplomat. Among the diplomats are a number who enjoy a personal acquaintance with the pope.

No predictions are volunteered here as to the successor of Pope Leo, although opinions are divided as to the succession of Cardinal Rampolla, Cardinal Gotti and Cardinal Satolli.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Rt. Rev. F. Z. Rooker, the newly appointed bishop of Jaro, Philippine islands, arrived today on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. When told of the serious illness of the pope he was astounded. He said: "I saw the holy father a week ago last Thursday when he held a consistory, a long, tedious ceremony in which he appeared to sustain no fatigue. After my audience with him I told him that I could see no change in his condition since I saw him last eight years ago. His body servant told me his master was in excellent health."

Mgr. Farnelly, who brings the pallium for Archbishop Farley, accompanied Bishop Rooker.

DR. SHRADY PREDICTS SUDDEN DEATH OF POPE

Eminent New York Physician Says There Is No Hope of Pontiff's Recovery.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 7.—"Judging from the complexion of the bulletins covering the progress of the pope's illness, we must give up hope of his recovery," said Dr. George H. Shrady this evening. "His condition differs from that which led to fainting spells on previous occasions and, with the complications due to extreme old age, there is but little likelihood of a rally. If he has any form of senile pneumonia his ailment will almost certainly prove fatal.

"It is not surprising that the distinguished medical men who are in attendance find no marked signs of pulmonary trouble. The gravity of the general symptoms is of more significance than signs of local trouble. With an old man, whose lungs have been weakened by repeated congestions, the symptoms reported are grave indeed.

"In ordinary pneumonia a great deal depends upon local symptoms, while in senile pneumonia the symptoms are more or less passive and latent. In these cases death is likely to occur quite suddenly from heart failure, due to systemic weakness, associated with congestion.

"With all the unfavorable symptoms which are reported it must be borne in mind that the distinguished patient possesses remarkable vitality. If there is any hope at all it is in the line of a rally. The pope has often recovered from similar attacks, but we may hear of his death at any moment."

CARDINAL GOTTI LEFT ALONE WITH THE POPE

It Is Thought That Probable Successor Was Discussed by His Holiness.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 8.—Much significance is attached to an extended visit made by Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the propaganda, to the pope's sick room, from which other conspicuous members of the sacred college are excluded by the doctor's orders. Cardinal Gotti's interview lasted 20 minutes even the doctors and attendants withdrawing and leaving him alone with the pope. This has naturally opened a wide field of speculation. It is even asserted on the authority of one cardinal that Pope Leo expressed the hope that in the event of the succession falling on Cardinal Gotti he might have the strength to take up and carry forward the great work thus confided to him.

Just what passed between the pontiff and Cardinal Gotti only they know, but certainly the circumstances and length of the interview support the view that the pope was giving his attention to the administration of the affairs of the church when he himself has passed away.

Throughout the day a constant stream of visitors besieged the entrance to the vatican. The guards at the portals kept back the merely curious, admitting only diplomatists accredited to the vatican and high ecclesiastical dignitaries. Among the diplomatists were the ministers of Russia and Prussia. The ambassadors of Spain, Austria and Portugal and the charge d'affaires for Brazil.

The French ambassador, M. Nisard, has shown deep interest in the reports from the sick room. He remained after midnight and on both sides of the vatican throughout the day. Cardinal Oreglia, the dean of the sacred college, who is not among the cardinals although it is expected that he soon will be called upon to perform the most important services of the interregnum. Though not calling personally, Cardinal Oreglia thrice dispatched his secretary, Father Slatto, to learn the exact condition of the pontiff.

POPE DRESSED HIMSELF DURING HIS DEATH WATCH

Found Energy to Rise from Bed at Moment When the End Was Expected.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 7.—The phenomenal vitality of Pope Leo becomes daily more and more extraordinary. He passed last night without sleeping an instant, and was a prey to terrible sufferings on account of the difficulty of breathing.

He was quite unable to take the slightest nourishment, and his condition was such that from time to time one of his valets went out to the cardinals waiting in the ante-chamber to announce that the end was near and that the pope could not live another hour. Dr. Mazzoni, too, was of the same opinion, and informed the members of the sacred college of it at midnight. Cardinal Rampolla, Cardinal Mathieu and others passed the night in the smaller throne room awaiting the supreme moment.

Strange to say, at the moment when the pope's death was most expected—at dawn—Pope Leo found sufficient energy to rise from his bed, dress himself, with the assistance of his valet, Centra, and seat himself in his arm chair. He asked what the newspapers were saying about his health and spoke of the journey of M. Loubet to London. Then he returned to the subject of his illness and asked to see the last dispatches of various sovereigns and chiefs of states who have sent respectful inquiries as to his condition. He then said in the feeble voice in which he now speaks, "I feel better."

When Dr. Lapponi communicated to him the decision of his medical attendants to operate upon him, Pope Leo, addressing Dr. Mazzoni, said:

"But in my weak condition are you not afraid of killing me? Do not really think I could resist an operation? I suffer; I suffer much. Carry out the operation as quickly as possible."

POPE LEO'S SUCCESSOR SURE TO BE AN ITALIAN

Three Nations of Europe, However, Have Power to Veto the Election.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

FOND DU LAC, WIS., July 7.—"It will be interesting to notice who the coming incumbent of the papacy will be," said Bishop Gration today, "though it is certain he will be an Italian. Italian cardinals have always regarded their nationality as favored of God, and since the days of Adrian VI., an Englishman, they have always kept the appointment of this office in their own hands.

"It is not ordinarily known by Roman Catholics that the heads of three European countries have a veto power over the election of a pope. They are France, Austria and Spain. I understand that some of them have already filed objections to certain of the cardinals who have been mentioned as likely to be chosen. Cardinal Gotti is a brilliant man and a fine scholar. Cardinal Satolli is too young. The elder members of the college will hardly vote for a young man."

ROMAN JURISDICTION OVER GREEK CATHOLICS

Court at Scranton Settles Dispute Between the Two Churches.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SCRANTON, PA., July 7.—In an opinion today President Judge Edwards rules that a priest of the United Greek Catholic church in the United States must secure faculties from and acknowledge the jurisdiction of the Roman Catholic bishop in whose diocese he wishes to become a pastor.

The decision is an interpretation under American law of the compact of 1595 entered into between the united Greek and Roman churches. The case at issue was that in which the members of the Oil phant Greek church, who wanted affiliation with Bishop Hoban's diocese, prayed for an injunction restraining the Rev. John Ardan, their pastor, and the trustees of the church, from carrying on services in the church, because the Rev. Mr. Ardan at the behest of the trustees had returned the faculties given him by Bishop Hoban and was excommunicated. The Rev. Mr. Ardan is forbidden to serve the church and the trustees are enjoined from engaging any pastor who does not secure faculties from the Roman Catholic Bishop of Scranton.

NOMINATIONS ACCEPTED.

All Allegheny Teachers Recommended Elected Without Opposition.

The Allegheny board of school controllers last night elected all the teachers recommended by the controllers from each ward without opposition. The report of the committee on high school to the effect that only those who hold certificates be allowed to teach in the normal departments, was referred to the committee on rules.

The question of text books to be used in the schools during the coming year was taken up, but nothing was accomplished. It was decided to hold a special meeting of the board on Friday evening next to consider the question.

BRENNEN'S CANDIDACY APPROVED BY CITIZENS

The friends of Attorney William J. Brennen, who has been indorsed by the Democratic as a candidate for the district attorneyship, met last night and, after hearing members of the Citizens party to learn whether Mr. Brennen would be acceptable to them as a candidate for election there. It is understood that the suggestion meets with the approval of the rank and file, but nobody cares yet to advise how the leaders of the Citizens party feel about it.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY AT WASHINGTON

Pittsburgh Attorney Murdered a Woman Then Killed Himself at a Hotel.

A. B. YOUNG'S STRANGE ACTS

No Motive to Explain Bloody Deed. There Was a Quarrel—Young Was the Son of a Minister and One of the Tenth's Philippine Heroes.

At the Seigel hotel in Washington, Pa., early yesterday morning, Attorney A. B. Young, son of the Rev. T. W. Young of Prosperity, Washington county, shot a woman he had registered as his wife, killing her instantly, and then turning the weapon, a 32-caliber revolver, on himself, ended his own life.

Young and the woman registered at the hotel Monday night as from Pittsburgh. Young had for a short time been a resident of Pittsburgh. About June 20 he arranged with E. E. Tombaugh to occupy desk room in the latter's office, at No. 433 Fourth avenue. After establishing himself in this office he was seldom there. He only spent one full day in the office, and a few days ago went away, leaving word that he would return on July 15. Little or nothing is known of his private life during the time he was in Pittsburgh.

Tragedy a Horrible One.

The double tragedy is supposed to have been enacted shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning. It was the most horrible Washington ever knew.

The dead bodies of the couple were found at noon when an entrance was gained to their room after they failed to respond to a summons at the door. Both were on the bed and the floor was covered with blood which flowed from the terrible wounds. Coroner W. H. Sipe took charge of the bodies and will hold an investigation, probably today.

The last seen of Young and his wife alive was when they stopped at the hotel corridor late Monday night. Young talking for a short time with A. F. Minton, one of the hotel's proprietors. The pair are believed to have retired about midnight, as the light was not seen through the transom after that hour.

There Was a Quarrel.

Mary Dwyer, head waitress at the hotel, who occupies a room on the third floor, almost directly over the room occupied by the Youngs, said she was awakened early by hearing the two quarreling in the room below. She heard a man swearing and cursing, and a woman's remonstrating voice. After the stormy conversation had been kept up for some time she heard two shots fired in rapid succession, with the awful scream of a woman between them. Then all was quiet.

The Dwyer girl was alarmed at first, but thinking the shots had been fired by some drunken carousers, fell asleep again and did not report the occurrence. Another woman, attendant at the hotel, heard the shots and a woman's scream, but thought they came from the street and paid no attention whatever to the occurrence.

Yesterday morning the Young's had not been heard from when a telephone message from Pittsburgh, said to be from a sister of Young's, was received and A. O. Hildebrand, the day clerk, went to room No. 17 to awaken Young and have him go to the 'phone to talk to the person who had called up.

Hildebrand knocked at the door repeatedly but failed to get an answer. He became alarmed and crawled out upon a roof and from there entered Young's room through a window. The blinds were down and he was almost to the bed before he discovered the conditions. Lying side by side on the bed were Young and the woman, attired in their night robes, bloody and dead. Hildebrand at once called the coroner.

There Was No Struggle.

The woman was lying on the right side of the bed, on her right side, and with her right hand was clutching the wound on her left breast. The other hand was buried in her hair, while she was covered with blood from head to foot. To her left lay Young, with his arms above his head and in his right hand was grasped the revolver with a death grip. A stream of blood from the gaping wound in his left breast had flowed down his side and formed a pool in the bed. The woman had evidently died without a struggle. One foot was thrown over the side of the bed. The indications were that Young had endeavored to rise after he shot himself, but had died before he succeeded in drawing his body to the floor. There were two empty chambers in the revolver. Both Young and the woman were burned by the powder, so close were the shots fired.

On the dresser was a half-emptied bottle of whisky, showing that either Young or the woman, or both, had been drinking before the retired.

The motive for the deed is an absolute mystery. The supposition is that the couple quarreled and that unnoticed by the woman Young secured a revolver from his grip and then lying down beside her, shot her without a moment's warning and almost as quickly placed the revolver to his own breast and pulled the trigger. An open grip would indicate that the revolver had been removed after the pair lay down. Business cards of Young's and articles of clothing were on the chairs and dresser but there had been no struggle of any kind in the room.

Young Was With the Tenth.

Washington was greatly startled by the awful affair and crowds of curious people thronged the hotel all afternoon. Young, as stated, is a son of the Rev. T. W. Young, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Prosperity, a little village about 16 miles south of Washington. He went to Trinity Hall school at Washington and was graduated from Grove City college in 1894. He then entered the Western Theological seminary at Allegheny and graduated in 1897, and was licensed to preach. At the outbreak of the Spanish war he enlisted in Company H, Tenth regiment, and served with that company in the Philippines.

On his return from the war he located in North Dakota, where he preached for some time. While there he is said to have married. Nothing is known of his wife. Young's parents do not know her maiden name. A short time ago Young left North Dakota and located in Pittsburgh, proposing to practice law. Little is known of him in Washington since he joined Company H. It is probable that as soon as the coroner concludes his investigation the bodies of the dead will be taken to the home of the Rev. Mr. Young at Prosperity, where they will be interred. The parents of the suicide started on a western trip yesterday morning, leaving the Baltimore & Ohio depot at Washington, while their son lay cold in death only a few blocks away. They were stopped at Wheeling, however, by a telegram, and at once returned to Washington.

Was the Woman His Wife?

It is questioned in Washington by many whether the dead woman was really Young's wife. She was about 25 years of age, of dark complexion, and tall. Young was about 30 years old.

Col. James E. Barratt, commander of the Tenth regiment, N. G. P., when asked when he could tell about Young said: "I knew Young very well and can say he was a young man of excellent habits and character. He was what you would call one of the clean boys. He was with me with the regiment through the Philippine campaign and made an excellent soldier. I know that he was exemplary in every way."

Asked if he thought the rigors of this campaign might have had anything to do with affecting the mind of Young, Col. Barnett said:

"I know that he suffered from the campaign and that he had been in delicate health ever since. He had not been well since he came back from Manila."

Young Was Close-Mouthed.

Edwin E. Tombaugh, with whom Young secured desk room, comes from Scenery Hill, Washington county, and he also only recently came to Pittsburgh to study law. Tombaugh was also a member of the Tenth regiment and served with Young in the Philippines. Mr. Tombaugh said: "I never heard of Young being married, although he may have been. He was of a rather reticent disposition, and did not talk much about his private affairs, so I never inquired as to whether or not he was married. I have no idea what could have been the cause of his act. He seemed to have enough money to get along always. His father is a very fine man, and his whole family is above reproach."

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER HANDLED FORGED BONDS

Charge Made Against M. M. Bunting, a Florist of Cheswick, Harmar Township.

M. M. Bunting, a florist and a Sunday school teacher in Cheswick, Harmar township, is charged with offering $2,000 worth of forged Harmar township school bonds to the Mortgage Banking Company as collateral for a loan of $1,000. The information was made yesterday before Alderman James V. McMasters by President John Weber and Secretary W. A. Armstrong of the school board. Bunting was released on $2,000 bail.

Last spring, Attorney J. A. Langfitt states, the board issued $2,000 worth of bonds to pay for improvements to the school building. These bonds were bought by the German National bank of Pittsburgh. The bonds offered to the Mortgage Banking Company are nicely printed, but the names of Mr. Weber and Mr. Armstrong do not resemble the genuine signatures.

Bunting came down yesterday morning to secure the loan, but was put off. Information was made against him immediately, and he was arrested at the West Penn depot on his way home. He did not seem surprised, and stated the bonds were given him by his mother to secure the loan.

PENN WOMAN AND CHILD CANNOT BE FOUND

Husband Fears That His Wife and Baby Were Lost in the Flood.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PENN, July 7.—The loss at this place from Sunday's flood will be greater than was at first estimated, nearly every resident of the community having sustained a loss of more or less seriousness. Today the work of cleaning up the homes, stores and streets was started and the extent of the damages learned.

William Johnson, a colored man, reported today that his wife and small child had evidently been drowned in the flood. The woman and child had been living in a small shanty on the outskirts of the town and it is thought they have been washed away.

The Johnson family has had an unusual amount of ill luck during its residence in Penn. The husband was employed as a laborer at the new foundry plant being erected here, but left town. Soon after his wife became ill with smallpox and only a few weeks ago recovered, since then she has been living in a small shanty on the outskirts of town. The shanty was carried away in the flood and it is thought the woman and child were drowned. The bodies have not been recovered.

Mrs. Mary Niga and her daughter, Pauline, aged 15 years, were buried in the Catholic cemetery here this morning. The other Niga child that was drowned Sunday night has not been recovered.

The body of James Westwood of Penn, who was killed by lightning Sunday evening, was taken this afternoon to West Newton, where the funeral will be held tomorrow. Westwood was 35 years old and was employed in Jeannette as a bartender. He is survived by his widow and two children. J. L. QUINN.

LEOPARD ATTACKS CARNIVAL PERFORMERS

Mazie Hall Seized by the Animal and Two Men Are Injured While Rescuing Her.

Three persons were seriously injured by the attack of a leopard at the Homewood carnival last night. Mazie Hall, a performer, passed in front of the animal's cage and the leopard clawed her, dragging her to the bars. Two men were clawed while rescuing the woman. The injured are:

MAZIE HALL of Jackson, Miss., clawed about the shoulder and arm.
EDWARD GRIM, bitten and clawed in the left arm and breast.

Mazie Hall was on her way to the dressing tent and walked close to the leopard's cage. The animal sprang at the bars and caught her by the left shoulder. The animal's claws fastened in her dress and she was dragged against the bars. Myers and Grim were standing near the cage and went to the woman's assistance. They beat the leopard over the head with iron bars until it released its hold on the woman. Dr. William H. Fremont dressed the wounds of the woman and the men. It will be several weeks before any of them will be able to resume their duties with the show.

CHILDREN CAUSE BLAZE.

Playing With Matches They Set Fire to Two Houses in McKees Rocks.

Fire caused by the burning of some matches with which some children were playing in the home of John Doubt, in Frederick street, McKees Rocks, yesterday afternoon resulted in property damage that will aggregate about $4,000. The Doubt children, with a number of small neighbors, were playing about the house, and introduced matches into the fun.

A fire resulted, and before the volunteer department got to the scene the John Doubt home and that adjoining, owned by Edward Doubt, were in flames. Both houses were almost completely destroyed.

John Doubt, who is employed at the Lake Erie shops, saw from there the burning houses, and ran to the assistance of the firemen. The latter had some difficulty in getting all the children out of the house. There is little insurance on either house.

PREFERRED DEATH TO PAYING BOARD

HIS ANSWER TO A LANDLADY

Frank A. Boyle Had Twice Before Attempted to Commit Suicide—Allegheny Brass Molder Took Carbolic Acid—Fourth of July Victim Found.

"Do you mean it?" and pulling a revolver from his pocket, Frank A. Boyle placed the muzzle in his mouth and blew off the top of his head. This was his reply to notice that he must pay his board or leave.

Boyle was 24 years old, a railroader, and boarded with Mrs. Henrietta Lewis at Short street and Herminie alley. The tragedy took place at 7:45 o'clock last night in Mrs. Lewis' parlor. Death was instantaneous.

Twice before in recent months Boyle had tried to kill himself. Five months ago he tried to strangle himself, but was caught by a room mate and saved. Two months ago he placed two loaded revolver cartridges on the top of a gas stove, lit the gas and held his face over the stove, awaiting the explosion. The explosion wrecked the stove, but didn't injure Boyle. He is survived by one brother, James Boyle of Altoona, and by three uncles in Williamsport, Patrick, Henry and Francis.

James Hennemann, a brass molder living at No. 1 Royal street, Allegheny, committed suicide at his home yesterday morning by drinking carbolic acid. Hennemann was 26 years of age and leaves a widow and four children. No motive is known for the suicide.

Joe Voss, a Russian, 28 years old and single, of No. 2527 Jane street, South Side, died in the county jail last night of delerium tremens. He was committed on July 4 for 10 days on a charge of drunkenness.

The body of Joseph Orban, 6-year-old son of Roman Orban, a steelworker in Duquesne, living in Mill street, was recovered at Browns station yesterday. The child was rowing with four companions on July 4 when the boat upset. The others were rescued.

Jeannette, the 6 months old daughter of John McGrew, was found dead in bed at the family home, No. 58 Clifton street, Allegheny, yesterday morning. The child was smothered by bedclothes.

Shortly after starting work yesterday morning Thomas Moran, aged 55, for many years employed as a section hand on the Pittsburgh & Western railroad, was killed by an engine at the Sharpsburg crossing. Moran lived in the Butler plank road.

John Schmidt, 45 years old, died at the Allegheny city home yesterday. He was sent there on July 1. Schmidt's home is not known to the authorities, but it is reported that five of his children are inmates of St. Joseph's Orphan asylum in Pius street, South Side, and that he has a brother living in that district.

Ignatz Nanckum, 24 years old, single, died yesterday at the Allegheny city home of rheumatism of the heart. He was a Russian and came to this country about six months ago. He formerly boarded at No. 341 Warner street, Allegheny, and was admitted to the home on June 2.

MAYOR'S DAUGHTER ILL.

He Goes South to See Her and His Trial Is Postponed for Some Time.

Mayor Hays left last evening on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for Sapphire, N. C., where one of his daughters, who is visiting friends there, is ill. The mayor had already made arrangements to go south on business connected with his lumber interests and the news of his daughter's illness only hastened his departure by a few days.

Mayor Hays was to be tried on Thursday for misdemeanor in dismissing old soldiers from the municipal service for political reasons. Yesterday District Attorney John C. Haymaker and John Marron, of counsel for the old soldiers, asked the court to postpone the case because the mayor was going away, and the court consented. Theoretically it is postponed to the September term, but if Mayor Hays returns before court adjourns for the summer vacation he can be called up.

On the mayor's behalf it is explained that, as the list of jury cases for one week is made on the Friday of the week preceding and his name did not appear on the list issued last Friday, he supposed that the case would not come up this week and on Monday only learned that the case had been put on the trial list on that day. The district attorney was seen, the urgency of Mayor Hays' reasons for going away were told and he immediately consented to the postponement requested.

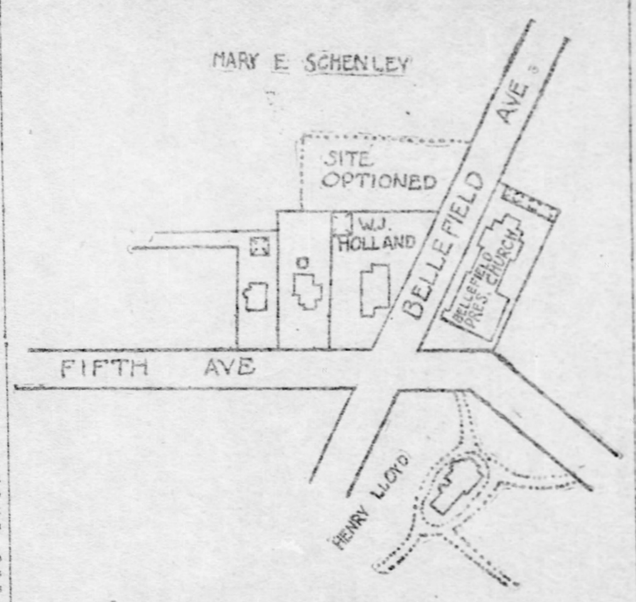
UNIVERSITY CLUB TO HAVE HANDSOME HOME IN BELLEFIELD



Map Showing the Proposed Site of New Club House.

The University club, which has been quartered so long in the old mansion at No. 431 Penn avenue, is looking forward to an early day when it will have a home worthy of any similar institution in Pittsburgh. To encourage prompt action on the part o the members a circular letter was mailed Monday setting forth the plans of the club as outlined by the committee of nine which was recently appointed to select a site and arrange for a new club house.

The committee, after investigating several desirable properties, hit upon a lot in the west side of Bellefield avenue in the rear of the residence of Dr. W. J. Holland, as the most advantageous site. An option of $50,000 has been secured on this lot, the owner, Mrs. Mary Schenley, making a considerable concession in the price in view of the character of the improvements to be made. The deal for the property is expected to be closed in a few days. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet at a point about 230 feet north of Fifth avenue, and a depth of 200 feet. It is directly across from the Bellefield Presbyterian church, as shown in the accompanying sketch. When the committee was appointed it was their special object to secure a site that would be central to the Carnegie library, the Carnegie Institute, the Hotel Schenley and the Duquesne garden. The lot selected is only two squares from three of these places and only four squares from the Carnegie institute. All the street cars going to the East End pass the corner, except the Liberty, Penn and Second avenue lines.

The club house is to cost $150,000. No architect has been chosen as yet, but the plans of the club are to have a home that will be a model of taste and convenience in every way. It will be especially designed to fill some of the wants that have been most grievously felt in the present club home in Penn avenue. Handsome apartments for permanent as well as transient guests will be provided. There will also be a ladies' cafe, a feature whose absence has caused the club no little mortification in the past. Ball rooms, assembly rooms, a library, a large diningroom, private rooms, club rooms, a billiard room, a gymnasium and a swimming tank will be among the features.

The club now has about 400 members, with Judge John D. Shafer as its president. Last spring there was a warm discussion as to whether the club should remain a downtown institution or move toward the East End. The latter was finally decided upon, and the committee appointed to get a site. Because they favored the downtown location some of the members who would not, they say, be much benefitted by the club house in the East End, have lately resigned. It is expected that in anticipation of the handsome home to be built, in what is considered the most desirable location of a college men's club in the city, the membership will be largely increased this summer. The lease on the present home in Penn avenue expired last April, but the club was given permission to stay this year at the old rental. By April 1 next year it is thought the new club house will be nearly or quite completed.

NEW POLICIES TO FOLLOW ELECTION

South Side Hospital's Management Will Now Be Shifted Around Considerably.

PROGRESSIVE MEN WIN OUT

New Blood Gets Representation on the Board and Supt. Doyd, Who Recently Resigned Will Be Recalled—Election Which Proved a Surprise to Directors.

New executive officials for the South Side hospital, new by laws, the return of a former superintendent, the reorganization of the staff, new regulations for its government and probably a new wing for the institution involving an expenditure of about $30,000—these are a few of the sweeping changes likely to result from the election of five new members to the board of directors yesterday at a meeting of the annual contributors. The balloting was spirited and ended in a victory for the new directors by 100 votes to 12.

Next Tuesday the board will reorganize. Dr. A. J. Barchfeld will be elected president to succeed Charles Schwarm, and A. D. Lloyd will be called back to the superintendency, a place he was forced to vacate a few weeks ago. Dr. C. C. Hersman will be re-elected secretary of the board.

Membership in the board of the hospital is sustained by election from three sources—the Ladies' Aid society, the South Side Medical society and the annual contributors. All persons who donate $10 or more a year to the institution are entitled to vote for five directors who are elected annually. The directors elected by the two societies are elected one each year, one from each society, to serve for five years each.

Yesterday was annual contributors' day to elect. It was evident from the moment the balloting began that the end of the old regime was at hand. The following were elected on the board: William A. Larimer, John McTiernan, Dr. Charles H. Hertzog, Dr. William H. Weber and Dr. James P. Kerr. Those defeated are: C. Henry Stoltzenbaugh, John Gray, William E. Sankey, John N. Sorg and L. H. Davis. Upon the reorganization of the board Messrs. Sankey, Gray and Sorg will go out of office together with Dr. J. D. Criss and Edward Eiler. Mr. Eiler resigned both as treasurer and member of the board several weeks ago. Mr. Stoltzenbach was not a candidate, his name being put on the ticket without his approval.

Charles Schwarm is the present president of the board. Others on the board, not included above, are John L. Lewis, Martin Procter, John Allfred and Daniel Beech, elected by the Ladies' Aid society, and Dr. John Miles Duff, Dr. C. C. Hersman, Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, Dr. William H. Kirk and Dr. W. T. Burleigh, representing the medical society.

The South Side hospital will receive $5,000 from the state to form the nucleus for a fund with which to build a new wing to the building. Accommodations are now provided for 50 patients, and with the additional structure the number of beds will be increased by 40.

"Before the snow flies next winter the new wing will be built, said a director yesterday. "For this $30,000 will be needed, and every cent will be forthcoming. Under a progressive management it will be a matter of no difficulty to secure liberal donations. The new board will mean business from the start, and South Side business men will come to the relief of the institution.

"Too great praise cannot be given to the heroic workers among the Ladies' Aid society. Ten years ago they found the hospital burdened by a debt of $35,000. They have reduced this at the rate of $3,500 a year, and now pay the interest on the mortgage. They have worked on unremittingly, and have been a wonderful moral as well as financial support of the institution."

Machinists' Strike Not Sanctioned.

Despite the fact that the members of the International Association of Machinists in this district balloted two times in favor of striking for an advance of 10 per cent in wages for the coming year, the executive board of the organization has not sanctioned their action. Vice President P. J. Conlin is in Pittsburgh discussing the situation with local officials and will make an effort to induce the men to settle the wage question without striking.

Great News of Towels.

Monday we put on sale towels for 25c each. There was never such another towel for a quarter-of-a-dollar offered. You responded so quickly to that announcement that over 1,500 towels were sold in a short time. It is evident that good towels are in demand.

Some of those on sale today in the Linen Store:

10c each for 12½c grades of Hemmed Huckaback and bleached and Cream Turkish Towels.

25c each for hemstitched Huck Towels, with a damask border—23x45. This is an extraordinary value.

We will also sell today, for 7½c a yard, a 10c grade of checked Glass Toweling and plain linen Toweling with red border.

Natural Color Dress Linens, 18c a Yard.

No material so admirable in hot weather for little girls' dresses and for women's outing suits; for those dapper long coats, and for men's automobile dusters, as this good linen.

1,000 yards of it on sale today, main floor, at 10c a yard. Former price was 30c a yard. It is 30 inches wide.

Hand-Embroidered Doilies, 10c Each.

When we tell you that there are two grades and that they sold for 25c and 35c, you will recognize the force 10c has.

These are damask doilies, and they are in open-work effects as well as hand-embroidered.

A discovery of anthracite coal is reported from Routt, Col. This is important if true, and it is not impossible that anthracite deposits may exist there. The only thing about the item that casts suspicion upon the truth of the report that anthracite has been found is the accompanying statement that the field will be as large as that of Pennsylvania. That is going too fast. Speedy methods are in vogue in Colorado, of course, but we are not prepared to accept the inference that Colorado can define in a few weeks the limits of a coal field as extensive as the anthracite region of Pennsylvania and determine the number of seams. Colorado is fortunate, indeed, if it has discovered anthracite coal within its borders, even if the field should prove to be not more than a fraction of the productiveness of that in Pennsylvania.

The action of select council in sending the Baltimore & Ohio ordinance back to the committee on corporations would surprise the public if the public was not long since past surprise at city council vagaries. The ordinance has been fully considered in the joint committee on corporations and the compensation was raised to a figure much above the original amount named. The joint committee represents both councils, but as a result of the faction politics which divides councils, select council by a resolution of April 28, 1902, provided for standing committees of its own. The result is a foolish complication of council procedure, which the present case exemplifies. The ordinance was considered in joint committee of both councils. After having been reported it passed common council and was referred by select council to its standing committee on corporations, composed of the same members who have already had the ordinance before them as members of the joint committee, and the ordinance is now being held up by this rump committee for reasons not stated, and which perhaps would not bear statement. The select council standing committees are a pernicious convenience to interested obstruction and ought to be abolished.

The grand jury took a very proper step in recommending the establishment of a county constabulary, and they make a wise remark in declaring that if possible the officers should be "appointed by the court and such appointments made at large." It is quite true that a "better and more efficient force and service would be maintained, better protection afforded and better order result." It may be added that unless some effectual precaution is taken to keep the force out of politics it will be of dubious value. One has only to note the slouching and undisciplined look of many of the recent additions to the Pittsburgh police force to realize what a poor body a county constabulary would be if appointments to positions upon it are made political patronage. The force should be a uniformed body subject to regular discipline, and to secure that result the course suggested by the grand jury is the right one to pursue. The chief constable should be appointed by the court and the force should be recruited and maintained under regulations approved by the court, which will make the tenure of position altogether independent of politics. It is in exactly this way that Canada maintains its admirable constabulary service. The control is in the hands of the judges and the force is recruited and disciplined in a way that ensures the thorough and impartial discharge of duty.

Director Bigelow is quoted as saying that there is not a single case of typhoid fever in the city that can be traced to the use of water furnished from the Allegheny river. He might have gone further and said that there is not a single case of typhoid fever in the world that can be traced positively to the water supply, but the experience of the world has shown that typhoid fever accompanies a polluted water supply and declines at once when the water supply is purified. The most direct evidence was obtained at Plymouth, Pa. Both Lawrence and Albany once had typhoid fever epidemics as regularly as Pittsburgh. In 1893 a sand filtration plant was put in at Lawrence and the typhoid fever death rate at once dropped from 10.52 per ten thousand to 7.96, and has been dropping since until in 1902 it was only 1.7. Albany had a death rate of 16.53 in 1898, when a sand filtration plant was put in. The next year the rate was down to 9.9, and it has kept dropping since until for 1902 it was 2.8 per ten thousand. We know that typhoid fever germs are constantly entering the Allegheny river water which we drink, and we know that a typhoid fever epidemic is a regular thing in Pittsburgh. Hence, it is not a violent inference to regard the character of the water supply as the cause of the epidemic, even if it is impossible to trace any particular case to the water supply. It is gratifying to learn that another effort is being made to wake up the committee which has been asleep on the filtration ordinances since last September.

Our Falling Out With Russia.

It seems unfortunate that relations between this country and Russia should be strained by two different provocations at the same time, but perhaps they are not so disconnected as they appear. In the matter of the Jewish petition Russia's right to refuse to accept it cannot be gainsaid, but the incident is of only transient importance. A petition framed in respectful language, as this one certainly is, cannot be treated as an insult, however unpalatable it may be, and if Russia refuses to receive it the matter ends there. It is a fair question whether the natural resentment inspired by the tender of advice to Russia upon the management of her internal affairs may not react upon our negotiations in regard to the open door in Manchuria, but the situation in that respect has reached a stage at which conciliatory measures are useless. There are times in all dealings when it is necessary to make one's self disagreeable in order to receive consideration, and just such a time has arrived in the relations between the United States and Russia as regards Manchuria.

That country has been an important market for the United States, particularly in cottons and coal oil. Although constantly disavowing any intention of injuring the interests of the United States, Russia has been doing so all along. Russian cotton, coal oil and other goods have been forced in to the exclusion of American products, not by fair competition, but by shutting out American goods on one pretext or another. Official pressure is applied to compel Chinese traders to handle Russian goods and reject the American goods which they prefer. Our consular reports have described the process, and the state department doubtless has many advices to the same purport which have not been made public. Although the country is nominally a Chinese province, Russia has successfully resisted the establishment of customs stations on the frontier, so that Russian goods not only enter free into Manchuria, but also pass thence into China duty free, while imports from other countries are subject to duties. This is not only an unjust discrimination against other nations to the advantage of Russia, but is a serious loss to Chinese revenues.

Russian policy has been slippery and deceitful. Treaty agreements are glibly admitted with endless protestations of good faith, but are ignored in practice. To complaints from our government, the most kindly assurances of good will and honorable intention are returned, but the same old game of arbitrary discrimination goes on. This trickery has excited President Roosevelt's indignation, and he is taking the right course and the only course to influence Russia when he manifests his resentment. Russia has been experimenting to know just how far she can go with this country, and when she ascertains the limit she will stop there. The Russian ambassador, Count Cassini, is returning home, charged with information on that point which will be useful to his government.

There is no likelihood of any breach between this country and Russia over the matter. If we show that we can't be fooled, but that we know our rights and mean to have them, Russia will respect us for it. She is well aware that if this country makes common cause with England and Japan the situation will be of her own making. The United States is not disposed to thwart Russia in any of her legitimate ambitions. If she were to annex Manchuria outright public opinion in this country might not approve, but it would acquiesce, but Russia keeps up the pretense that Manchuria is Chinese territory, while administering it as Russian territory, and seizes illicit advantages both ways in contravention of the treaty rights of the United States. It is this policy of which we complain, and when Russia is convinced that we will not stand it any longer she will quit it.

Pressing for Results.

The call for a meeting of common council Thursday evening is a move in the right direction. When the quorum was broken at the meeting of the corporations committee last Friday night by the departure of the cash compensation advocates, the chairman of the committee let it be understood that he would not soon call the committee together again, because it could not agree to attend to its business. Under such circumstances council ought to take the measure back and either amend and perfect it on the floor or refer it to a committee competent and willing to do so. Mayor Hays has desired that it be referred to City Attorney William B. Rodgers, but the corporations committee showed no inclination to do that. Common council, when it regains possession, will be wise to request an opinion from the city attorney upon the points of law involved, which it can do without loss of time between second and third readings.

The points upon which the legal adviser of the city should pass are those affecting the welfare of the city, that is, the clauses relating to damages, to the protection of public rights in the streets and wharves and the removal of the tracks from Liberty avenue. The question that has been raised regarding the right of the city to grant a franchise between the harbor line and Duquesne way is one that does not particularly concern the city, and it may be left to the railroad company to defend its right to occupy that space. The city is vitally concerned in having freedom of passage over all of its highways and to and from the wharf and in being saved clear from all costs or damages.

This call for a meeting to expedite the public business is the more commendable, because when the ordinance has passed common council it may have to suffer the unreasonable delays to which select council has subjected other important measures, notably the Wabash and Baltimore & Ohio ordinances. It may not be possible to overcome the outrageous obstruction of the select branch until there is another election for councilmen, but if so it would seem inevitable that the sleepiest ward should be awake by that time. Yet even when the obstructionist members are retired to private life it will be found that councils will be incompetent to negotiate business agreements satisfactorily. That can be done only by a board upon which responsibility is centered and which must answer to the whole people. The present diffusion of responsibility and clashing interests of factions constitute an invitation to corruption.

A Repudiated Pledge.

So far the Citizens party has not redeemed a single campaign pledge, and when confronted with the opportunity of making good their promises concerning an old grievance, they went squarely back on their professions. All the Citizens party members of the Allegheny finance committee voted against the consolidation of the office of delinquent tax collector with the city treasurer's office, which really keeps the work in shape. Councilman William A. Ford made an unfortunate choice of an argument when he said that the city treasurer would have no incentive to collect delinquent taxes, and the rich people would get the city's money at 3½ per cent a year. It is pretty well known that the existence of the delinquent tax collectorship has operated to retard the payment of taxes. Such things have been known as intimations to large taxpayers that they can hold back two years by the payment of the 5 per cent fee of the delinquent tax collector.

The situation in this respect has, however, been greatly altered by act No. 86 of the last session of the legislature. That act makes it the duty of the city treasurer to sell property in arrears for taxes "on the first Monday in June in the year succeeding the year in which the respective taxes are assessed and levied." The act imposes costs for advertising and the posting of notices to be received by the city treasurer. The delinquent tax collector is required to turn over to the city treasurer schedules of all unpaid taxes. It will be seen that this act enforces payment of delinquent taxes inside of six months, and this will queer the practice of holding back taxes. Instead of getting the use of the money at the rate of 5 per cent for two years it will cost 5 per cent for less than six months. The delinquent tax collector's office is now so useless and superfluous that sheer determination to favor a sinecurist is the only honest reason that can be given for its continuance as a separate department.

Not Unimportant.

The Republicans of Virginia went farther than their Republican brethren of other states, who only indorsed President Roosevelt for election in 1904, by indorsing him for 1908 as well, an antion that called down this adverse comment of the Washington Star:

This is very complimentary, but, except in the way of suggestion, not important. The Republicans of the Old Dominion are powerless at the polls in a presidential contest. A Democratic majority is provided for by the new state constitution, and assurance made doubly sure by the machinery of elections. It is of small moment, therefore, in a practical sense, what the Virginia Republicans may think of Mr. Roosevelt now or later as the leader of their party. They will not be able to render him any assistance in an appeal to the country on the policies for which he stands. Admire him they doubtless do. But they have nothing beyond admiration to offer.

We agree with the Star in so far as its comment relates to the 1908 indorsement that the action is more complimentary than important, and it is also true, in view of the unanimity for Roosevelt, that the 1904 indorsement of the Virginians is of less importance than if national sentiment were divided. But the Star overlooks the fact that the unenviable position of the Virginia Republicans on election day does not decrease their weight in the national conventions of the party. They have as many votes to give to a candidate for the nomination for president as if their electoral vote could be counted in advance in the Republican column. There are two United States senators and ten members of the house of representatives from Virginia in the Fifty-seventh congress, and the weakness of the Republicans in the state appears in the fact that but one of them, the representative of the Ninth district, is a Republican. Nevertheless, the system of representation in the Republican national convention gives Virginia two votes in that body for each senator and representative in congress, a total of 24 votes. The importance of an indorsement from the state convention of Virginia is to be measured by this, and not by the conditions that govern the state's representation in the electoral college. While it remains true that the vote of a state in the Republican national convention is based on the state's numerical strength in congress without regard to its political complexion, instead of on the vote of the party on election day, no calculating politician would classify among things unimportant the presidential indorsement of the Republican convention of the most hopelessly Democratic state in the union, and in this instance the politician's view is the true one.

At Portsmouth the American squadron on European station was given a cordial reception by the huge channel squadron of Great Britain, the occasion being graced by the presence of Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, always popular with Americans. The welcome was less effusive than that at Kiel, though hearty. The distinction might be compared in the one case to the welcome extended to distinguished guests who have been strangers and in the other to the easy reception of old friends. Probably the naval representatives have something of that feeling, but it may be expected the next visit to German waters will be attended by fewer formal expressions of good will, but quite as cordial fraternization.

President Loubet's reception in England has been cordial and enthusiastic. If Fashoda has not been forgotten it has been put out of mind and it may be expected an era of better feeling has been inaugurated between John Bull and Jean Crapaud.

Advices from Washington indicate that the Pittsburgh postoffice is highly thought of there, and after careful consideration of the matter the people of this city agree that they don't see how they could get along without it.

A BAD TOOTH.

It was toothache ailed poor Jenkins, and his jaw hummed night and day
Like a beehive in the orchard depths in honey-making May.
He tried everything to stop it that he'd heard or read about
But he didn't try the dentist—for he wouldn't have it out.

There it stayed, that hateful, twisting, grinding torture in the jaw,
Like a grinning little demon with the nerve clutched in his paw.
Jenkins couldn't keep from howling; he would groan and curse and shout,
Till the neighbors thought him crazy—but he wouldn't have it out.

Jaw and cheek and tongue were peeling from the stuff that he applied,
And he couldn't sleep the imp off, for it woke him when he tried.
He was sore and weak and wasted, and his tooth jumped like a trout,
But he clenched his fists and bore it—for he wouldn't have it out.

So he languished, wrenched and anguished, for a fortnight, black with pain;
Then he rushed off to find a dentist—and turned weakly back again.
Awful visions rose before him, filled his trembling soul with doubt,
And he slunk back to his torment—for he wouldn't have it out.

Deeper, blacker grew the anguish that was eating up his soul,
Till his very life seemed ebbing through that little, angry hole.
And the imp kept twisting, twisting, with the bitter spite of gout,
Till poor Jenking writhed and whimpered—but he wouldn't have it out.

"I will live it down!" he muttered; and he went his feeble way,
Till the pain grew like a storm cloud, blotting all the light of day.
On the last verge of endurance, with just strength to crawl about,
He went cowering to the dentist—and 'twas fun to have it out!

Strikes and the Public.

It is unjust and inhuman that while leaders of capital and leaders of labor quarrel wives and babes should go hungry. Our American system of self-government cannot be considered complete while there is no agency for the prompt settlement of such disputes, or while men willing and able to work are by any body of men, representing either capital or labor, denied the opportunity of earning a livelihood for their families. No one individual, whether employer or employe; no one interest, whether of capital or of labor; no one section of the people, whether investors or toilers, is greater than the community at large. "We love each other so," and with that Queen Draga and her king died.

One who knew this ill-fated woman writes a letter to a London weekly in which she is pictured more clearly than in any other of the many sketches of her which have appeared in the papers of late. It gives one a good idea of the manner of woman she was at heart. Following is an extract from the letter:

Draga tried to win the favor of Servia with a woman's arts and a woman's charm. She wanted to accompany the king to Russia, where the czar had promised to receive them, after which presentation every court in Europe, including the bitter court of Vienna, would be open to her. She looked forward to many things, did this "Madama Draga," the upstart, whom nobody pitied, the woman who seemed to divide with her infamous father-in-law all the venomous gossip of Europe.

She had been very beautiful, and danger had not torn from her the joy of life. Only a little before her death she had been looking forward to a new dress with an eagerness which seems to us now strangely pathetic. For one thinks of her crouching in the darkened palace, every room of which had been for some time impregnated with the menace of death.

Crouching and clinging to her husband, Draga finds her way into that hidden room in which she and Alexander are to hold their last conference. And they know that death is threatening them, and they whisper together concerning the terms upon which they both may live. Each knows that it is a matter of life and death that they should separate, and life is sweet to each of them. A knock sounds at the door, and the traitor is admitted. "We have changed our minds; we love each other," exclaims Alexander, and Draga's destiny is merged forever in that of the fatal line.

That is how one likes to think of them, this man and woman whose love-story aroused the resentment of two great monarchies. They loved each other in the face of death; and if it was Draga who destroyed, it was also Draga who redeemed. For as long as human nature rejects the festering insults toward the dead, public opinion will refuse to associate Alexander with the memory of his infamous father. They are both dead, and the descendant of Kara George succeeds; but "Where there is blood it is slippery," and there is much blood in Belgrade.

"All the world loves a lover," even though he be a wicked man, or she an adventuress. Not that they are loved because of their wrong doing, but because they have love in their hearts, or rather because they have hearts that love. If only a small part of that which has been told of Robin Hood be true we can hardly help liking the fellow, for he was a lover bold, as well as a robber bold although feared by his people yet was he admired by women everywhere, and respected by men of high and low degree.

Being a robber for the fun of the thing as much as for the gain, he was neither cruel nor bloodthirsty. In fact he was quite gentle, as well as sympathetic and sentimental. This was shown by his habit of robbing the rich and giving to the poor. Many were the jolly picnics and feasts given by the rish to the poor through the agency of Robin Hood.

Of course this would count nothing for the rich, because it was given unwillingly, but it helped the poor mightily.

But where did Robin Hood come in? Was it to his credit here and hereafter that he made so many happy at the expense of a few? Or was he guilty of a mortal crime?

* * * * *

This love business is past finding out, particularly the part played by woman. Not that woman is such a great mystery, but as a lover who is apt to do such odd and unlooked for things. And for a lover—her lover—she will dare almost anything, even death, yea, hell itself. It was this, possibly, that led Byron to say:

"Man's love is of man's life a thing apart;
'Tis woman's whole existence."

Love comes not at your bidding, nor will it go at your request, not even at your command. Love that would come and go as easy is not worth the trouble it causes.

We sometimes wonder at its taking hold in such unpromising places, and wonder still more at its persistence in clinging there when there are such promising places near by. But it has a power over the eyes by which uncouth features are made to appear graceful, and defects to become charms.

You may tear it away if you will, but it will not grow where you may choose to plant it, tend it carefully as you may. It may retain a semblance of love, but hardly more than enough to barely excuse the name.

* * * * *

Marriage is not always a sure sign of the presence of mutual love. Only too often it means slavery, for marriage without mutual love means misery for one, if not for both, no matter how fine the surroundings.

Love in a cabin is much to be preferred to a palace without love.

As you may know, or have heard, it is not the usual thing for kings and queens to live together, but to occupy separate apartments. In fact this is said to be the rule among royalty.

The reason for all this is clear. They do not love each other, but have married for political or for mercenary purposes rather than for the one purpose for which love was provided. Love matches are not sought by royalty, nor by the aristocracy, whether of blood or of wealth. Indeed they are scarcely tolerated.

Money or power, or both, is the object of marriage among the aristocracy.

And yet there is more of happiness, and of goodness, and of real worth in the humble home where love reigns.

"Tis sweet to hear the watch-dog's honest bark
Bay deep-mouth'd welcome as we draw near home;
'Tis sweet to know there is an eye will mark
Our coming, and look brighter when we come.
—Byron.

Marriage leads to some odd mix-ups in relationships. Here is one that is worse than the "fifteen puzzle."

One Beppo, a Neapolitan sailor, tells of his matrimonial experience, and would like for some one to send him a diagram showing him just where he is at.

"I married a widow," he says, "and she had by her first husband a handsome girl named Silvietta, with whom my father fell in love, and who became his second wife. Thus my father became my son-in-law and my stepdaughter became my mother, since she had married my father. Soon afterwards my wife gave birth to a son, who became my father's step-brother, and at the same time, my uncle, since he was my step-mother's brother, but that was not all, for in due time my father's wife also gave birth to a boy, who was my brother and also my step-son, since he was the son of my daughter. My wife was also my grandmother, for she was the mother of my mother, and thus I was my wife's husband and at the same time her grandson. Finally, as the husband of a person's grandmother is naturally that person's grandfather, I am my own grandfather!"

If love could rule the universe,
How changed would all things be,
He would remove in language terse
All bars in his decree.
No rank could ever intervene
To stay affection's course,
'Twould bow its head with lowly mien
Before his gentle force.
The earth would be so bright,
The radiant sun
Would shed its warmth and light
For every one.

A king might then a peasant wed,
An empress love her page,
A seamstress with a princess bred
Might throw her winsome gage.
Sweet sentiment would rule the earth
With banner high unfurled,
And happiness—no more a dearth,
Could love but rule the world.
How happy all would be,
An Eden vale
Again the earth would see,
Could love prevail.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Postal Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 7.—One of the perils of the Rapid Transit subway with which New Yorkers have become familiar was emphasized yesterday when a woman was hurled to death by a passing street car. She was standing in a narrow space between the edge of the excavation and the car track waiting for an opportunity to gain the sidewalk after alighting from a car, when a car wider than some of the others came along and swept her into the pit. She fell 25 feet, fracturing her skull. The risks the public are compelled to take through these great trenches are none the less terrible because we are familiar with them. Motormen are not remarkable for their consideration, and when they do condescend to utter a word of warning, it is in a churlish way that the listener probably does not understand. It is possible that the motorman growled at this woman killed yesterday. He must have seen that she was in a dangerous situation and that unless the utmost care were exercised she would be killed. But after grunting at her—if he did take the trouble to utter a warning—he thought his duty was done and it was her own lookout to keep in safety, notwithstanding that there actually was not room between the edge of the hole and the track for her to stand. It is more than likely that this casualty will call renewed attention to dangers of this kind and if the contractors escape a verdict against them for heavy damages they will be extremely fortunate.

New Hotel Under Old Name.

The Sturtevant house is still in existence, although the old building so familiar to Pittsburghers has been vacated. The old proprietor, Mr. Bang, has opened up again in Thirty-fifth street and he calls his hotel by the name that he has made famous in Broadway. The familiar names of hotels and theaters are retained in Manhattan whenever possible. It is one of the few bits of sentiment left to New York.

Stream of Femininity on Broadway.

There was a fine summer display of beauteous femininity in Broadway this afternoon. The semi-transparent white shirtwaist, with the fruit-and-flowers millinery, was gloriously in evidence, and the peaches-and-cream complexion peculiar to the New York woman set at defiance the brazen stare of Old Sol. There was a continuous procession of shoppers and promenaders and it stretched from Central park to Fourteenth street. Broadway had been dull and half deserted for so long that the sudden breaking of the sea of loveliness on its shore was refreshing to everybody.

One of the Wonders of Manhattan.

"How old should you think that woman is?" asked an old New Yorker of me, as he called my attention to a dashing blonde of about 25 who was sailing along with the stream of handsomely gowned women, holding a costly parasol over her Paris-style hat. "Look at her well." I said I supposed she was about 28, on close inspection. The New Yorker chuckled as he whispered: "Why, that woman is older than Lillian Russell." Without allowing me to recover from the shock of this awesome statement he went on. "And she has a police record as long as your arm. She used to be known in every cafe and all-night place along 14th street, when Thirty-third street was actually in the midst of things, and she has put in so many evenings there that I doubt whether she remembers her own name. To the police she is known as Pearl Libbey, and it is a name familiar to police and men about town everywhere." And yet this Pearl Libbey, in her white lace shirtwaist, and with her pretty mouth curved into a half smile harmonizing with her baby stare, would have passed for even less than the 28 years I had guessed. There are lots like her in Manhattan.

Cotton as a Cause of Insanity.

Cotton is a harmless material—unless it happens to be gun cotton. Yet it has kept some hundreds of men on the verge of insanity for the last two days. The wild scenes in the cotton exchange today have never been exceeded in the New York stock exchange. It looks at this writing as if the bears have it.

Negro Murderer Pleads Insanity.

Spencer, the negro who killed MacFarlane, an officer of the Anti-Policy society in the criminal courts building a few weeks ago, was on trial today. The defense is insanity. His counsel said Spencer was badly beaten in the race riots of a year or two ago and that he had been slightly ever since. Spencer's demeanor in court is cool and confident. His counsel, who was appointed by court, indicates that he will fight desperately for the life of his client, and it is doubted whether the jury will convict in the first degree.

Africander Wins Again.

Africander, winner of the Suburban in the mud, proved his speed on a fast track this afternoon by carrying off the rich Realization stakes, in which he beat Golden Maxim by a nose. It was a most exciting contest, and was another of those surprises that have been so numerous on the track in Greater New York this season. The bookies are now convinced that Africander is one of the greatest horses in the east. Although nominally the favorite, comparatively few expected him to win.

Adams Takes His Medicine.

Al. Adams, the "policy king," has decided to take his medicine in Sing Sing. He finds that he cannot get a new trial and it has been forced upon him that he cannot escape retribution for his misdeeds. Perhaps he thinks he is getting off cheaply after all. It is understood that as soon as his year in Sing Sing has expired he will take ship for England and stay there for the rest of his natural life. Many people would not mind a year in the penitentiary for the sake of the wealth Adams has acquired by his policy operations.

Mgr. Farrell Brings the Pallium.

Mgr. Farrell has arrived in New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse today from Rome with the pallium which is to be placed on the shoulders of Archbishop Farley of New York. When the latter receives the pallium Cardinal Gibbons will not officiate as it was expected he would, because he will be in Rome attending the conclave of cardinals which will choose a successor to Pope Leo XIII.

Drop in Steel Shares.

The drop in steel shares in the last half hour of the market at the stock exchange this afternoon was sensational. Although the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation had not been issued rumors crept from the board room where the directors were in session and selling orders were large enough to break the price below 36. For a little while the stock exchange drew the general attention away from the cotton exchange where things had been boiling all day.

FRANK A. PARKER.

Although the Washington weather man says today will be fair and warmer in this vicinity, the man with rheumatism declares he knows better. "I have aches and pains in every section of my frame," he says, "and if that doesn't portend rain I don't know anything about weather indications." He also says he had the same sort of feeling just before the great storm of Sunday afternoon, and that ought to settle the question.

The Bogie of Wealth.

If I could die tonight,
And feel assured no fight
Would start among my heirs.
That my will
As written, would be theirs,
And that still
The world would honor me.
Then would I feel free
And calmly view the approach of death.

If but an honored name
I leave behind, no fame
Of greater men will e'er
Disturb me;
I envy none who care
Thus to be Remembered for deeds done,
For earthly plaudits won,
I ask but rest that's undisturbed.

Juggling With Figures.

"Economy is the road to wealth, young man," said a gentleman to his son on the Fourth of July. "You are using too many matches. Don't you know that matches cost money?"

That little sermon didn't stop the use of matches in adding to the general noise on the Fourth, but it caused the boy to do a little stunt at figuring after he had finished the celebration and had nothing else to occupy his mind. He started out to find how many matches a man ordinarily uses in the course of a life time, then decided he would discover how long it would take him to save a million dollars by cutting out the use of matches altogether. Here are some of the things the figures show, using 25 matches as the daily stint of a man who smokes:

For $1,000,000 you can buy 222,222 gross of boxes, 500 in the box, or 35,560,084,032 matches.

End to end these matches would reach 800,000 miles. The boxes end to end would reach 1714 miles.

In the making of the matches 15 cords of wood would be used.

To save a million dollars in matches would require 459,999,961 days, or a little more than 17,534 years.

If any one wants to start out making a fortune he will have mighty little competition, life is too short to spend more than 17,000 years in such a tedious quest.

A beautiful girl from Dubuque
Once fell in love with a Duque.
As her father was poor
And the suitor a boor,
Her love affair proved a fiuque.

Found a Father.

Considering the nomadic spirit of the American people, the number of stories one hears of the finding of a relative long mourned as dead are not to be wondered at. Any one who has traveled is never surprised at meeting an old friend on the street in a town a thousand miles from where he was last seen, apparently located for life. It is an every day occurrence for some one to find a father, or brother who has just returned from the west after years of absence.

Just such a case happened at the Duquesne garden on Monday, as is Manager John B. Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds was sitting in his office when a well-dressed, elderly gentleman entered and asked for the home address of Miss Anna Shaw, a member of the chorus.

"Why do you wish to see her?" asked Mr. Reynolds.

"Well, I'm her father, and as I haven't seen her for twelve years, I thought it was about time to call on her," said the old man.

The company happened to be rehearsing at the time, and Mr. Reynolds guided the old gentleman back on the stage, and pointing out a bevy of pretty girls, among them Miss Shaw, told him to pick out his daughter. The father gravely shook his head. None of the half dozen young women looked like the little girl of 6 years he had left when he started west. At last Mr. Reynolds called Miss Shaw out, told her of the visitor, then left them to renew acquaintance.

In about half an hour father and daughter passed out of the garden together. They stopped long enough to tell Mr. Reynolds the story of their separation for so many years. Their home was in a little Indiana town, and the father failed in business. Then he decided to go west and was never heard from until he appeared at the theater on Monday. It was the usual story of failure for years, then at last in his wanderings he found himself in the Thunder Mountain mining district, and was one of the lucky ones, and soon had a small fortune.

He immediately started to search for his deserted family. His wife had been dead for years, but he was told that his daughter Anna was singing in the chorus at the Duquesne garden, and he immediately came on to Pittsburgh. The result is a vacancy in the Garden chorus ranks.

Gov. Taft's Message.

It was a fine thing to complete a cable across the Pacific, though it was only the second and not the first one laid. It was a fine thing to complete with an American cable another telegraphic circuit of the globe, though that, too, had been done by another cable months before. Much better was it to complete the connection of the United States with its farthest outlying possessions by means of a purely American cable. But we are inclined to give highest and noblest rank to the circumstance that the earliest practical use of that cable, in the first message ever received over it in this country, was that fine appeal for just and generous dealings with our insular dependents. It was quite characteristic of the admirable spirit with which Governor Taft has all along addressed himself to his arduous work in the Philippines. It is most auspicious as an earnest of the use he is likely to make of his new line of communication with the government at Washington.—New York Tribune.

Arbitration in England.

A recent report of the British labor department shows that the settlement of labor controversies by arbitration is growing in favor in the United Kingdom. During last year 561,000 disputes respecting wages were settled by conciliation boards and 156,000 by the parties themselves. Wage earners received much less than in 1900; but taking the period of 10 years, from 1893-1902, the whole of the statistics have been collected, there was a slight average increase, about 7 pence per head per week.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Advocates of Mechanical Filtration Expect to Have Their Way Today.

SUB-COMMITTEE IS TO MEET

Chairman Brown Favors Alum Water, and Says Other Members Agree With Him—Report to Be Submitted to the General Committee Before Councils.

Advocates of the use of chemicals to purify the city's water supply and agents of mechanical filters will be present today at the meeting of the sub-committee of councils on filtration, which was appointed September 15, 1902, and is expected to hold its first meeting this afternoon.

Those who believe that the population of Pittsburgh would consent to use alum water for drinking and cooking purposes will this afternoon urge that the sub-committee adopt and present to councils a statement setting forth the superior claims of this system upon the ground of its cheapness. According to the statement of Councilman Thomas M. Brown, chairman of the general filtration committee and also the sub-committee, the entire committee is inclined toward the alum water idea.

"I am in favor of mechanical filtration," said Chairman Brown, "because it is cheaper, and from the report of the commission which investigated this matter for Pittsburgh I see nothing to indicate that mechanical filtration is not just as good as sand filtration. I believe also that the majority of the members of the sub-committee favor mechanical filtration."

Chairman Brown says he is willing to submit the matter again to the people, notwithstanding they have already decided the question in favor of sand filtration by appropriating $2,500,000 for a sand filtration plant, which at the time was believed to be a large enough appropriation to build sand filters.

Chairman Brown, while advocating mechanical filters and claiming that the majority of his sub-committee is in favor of mechanical filtration, says he is willing to give the people another chance to change their opinion by voting on the proposition to vote $1,219,000 additional to complete a sand filtration plant, and he announces that if the people vote this proposition down he is in favor of using the money already in hand, which is now less than $2,500,000, to establish some other system, the mechanical preferred.

Chairman Brown said yesterday that he had investigated the filtration problem and he took it for granted that the other members of his sub-committee had done the same. He said the program for today would be to discuss the matter and then to appoint some person to draft a report that would be first submitted to the general committee and then to councils. It is expected that Chairman Brown will be appointed to this task himself, as he is the only member of the sub-committee who has displayed an active interest in the matter and who has come out openly for either system. The other members, when questioned, have stated simply that they are in favor of "the best system." They have given various reasons for their failure to attend former meetings when called, but promise to make an extra effort to respond to the call for today.

BOUNDLESS DEPOSITS OF ANTHRACITE FOUND

Routt County, Col., Has Great Riches Within Easy Reach of Western Markets.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DENVER, July 7.—Anthracite in almost boundless quantity has been discovered in Routt county on the line of the Moffatt railroad. Prof. Lake, who for many years occupied the chair of geology at the state school mines, vouches for a 14-foot vein of anthracite in a field of bituminous coal on the Yampa river that approximates 440 square miles. The deposit is on the plateau about 250 miles northwest of Steamboat Springs. Some of the veins are said to be 50 feet thick.

The anthracite feature, says Prof. Lake, cannot be overestimated, as the only anthracite fields in the west are owned by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company at Crested Butte. The anthracite of Routt county will be less than 200 miles from Denver via the Moffatt railway, with a down-hill haul the entire distance, enabling the owners to compete with Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa. California, however, is looked upon as the best market, finding an outlet by way of Senator Clark's railway.

SILVER WEDDING DAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice M. Cushing Celebrate Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice M. Cushing of No. 1404 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding day last night. Many friends of their youth congratulated them on the attainment of their silver wedding. The Rev. Father A. A. Lambing, pastor of St. James church, Wilkinsburg, was the guest of honor. He married Mr. and Mrs. Cushing in St. Mary's of Mercy church, Pittsburgh, and addressed the guests last night on the felicity of the married life of this couple.

Mrs. Cushing was before marriage Miss Margaret O'Connell of the First ward, Pittsburgh. Among the guests last night were S. W. Gerry and wife, L. W. Denie and wife, C. S. Madden and dwife, J. M. Snyder and wife, D. O'Leary and wife, C. B. Cushing and wife and the Rev. Father J. F. Enright, assistant rector of St. James church, Wilkinsburg.

Progressive euchre, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Cushing were the recipients of many useful and ornamental silver presents.

SOLDIER UNDER ARREST.

Philippine Veteran and Postoffice Clerk Charged With Stealing Letters.

Harry F. Hall, a clerk in the distributing department of the postoffice, was arrested last night by Frank A. O'Brien and W. S. Ryan, postoffice inspectors. Lost letters were traced as far as his department and when a decoy letter was sent on its way it stopped when it reached Hall and was found in his possession, it is said. He was taken in custody about 8 o'clock last evening and locked up in Central station. He will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner W. T. Lindsay.

Hall is a single man, 26 years old, and lives in Wilkinsburg. He has been employed at the postoffice for about a year, securing a place shortly after his return from the Philippines, where he served in the army for two years.

OPEN-AIR WEDDING AT THE HOMEWOOD CARNIVAL TODAY

Mary Glover of the Thirteenth ward, who is quite a belle in her set, will wed John McCree, on the Midway of the Homewood Carnival company, Hamilton avenue, this afternoon. The nuptial knot will be tied by Squire William Robinson. The bride and bridegroom will be presented with a number of fine gifts, donated by prominent merchants, and will be taken on a novel tour around the midway. Among the presents they will receive are a bedroom suite, a purse of gold, a Paris hat for the bride, an opera hat for the groom, a wedding ring, and several other more or less useful articles. All expenses are to be met by donation. The wedding promises to be one of the star events of the Carnival.

AMERICAN SQUADRON WELCOMED TO ENGLAND

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PORTSMOUTH, ENGLAND, July 17.—The American squadron's first day in British waters has ended as brilliantly as it began. While Admiral Hotham entertained Admiral Cotton and the American captains at dinner tonight, the junior officers of the United States vessels were dining on board the British gunnery ship Excellent. The English and American ships were illuminated this evening, the spectacle attracting thousands of onlookers, who watched it from the flag-bedecked streets.

The following dispatch has been received by Admiral Cotton:

Buckingham Palace, July 7.

Admiral Cotton, United States Battleship Kearsarge:

The king welcomes you and your squadron to England and is looking forward to greeting you and your brother officers in London.

Admiral Cotton immediately replied as follows:

Flagship Kearsarge, Portsmouth.

Lord Knollys, Secretary to His Majesty, King Edward VII., Buckingham Palace, London:

Rear Admiral Cotton acknowledges with grateful appreciation his majesty's cordial welcome to himself and officers of the squadron under his command to England and anticipates with great pleasure the honor of meeting and paying his respects to his majesty in London.

Heaven comes after tempest,
The crown comes after cross,
A father's smile after suffering
And riches untold for loss.
Right is God's way of guiding to the land of cloudless day.
Right, though it be through darkness, for He knows all the way.
Yonder bright land of sunshine no aching feet ever trod.
Blessed home where a quiver of anguish through no breast ever throbbed.
After the storm and heartaches comes rest of unbroken calm.
Unchanging in verdant beauty, their life is a song and psalm.
Sweet is the Father's home, rest that Christ has gone to prepare.
For all who love Him will surely enter there.
In His own good time He'll call us and greet us one by one;
No night, no death, no suffering, and the Saviour cries "Well done."

Funeral from his late residence, 1781 Perrysville avenue, Allegheny City, on Wednesday, July 8, at 2 p. m. Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

(Philadelphia, (Pa.), St. Louis, (Mo.), and Detroit (Mich.) papers please copy.)

TEMPORARY FORCE TO PROTECT THE COUNTY

Salary Board Tenders the District Attorney Special Detectives for Four Months' Duty.

While Allegheny county will not have at this time a new county detective bureau such as many have been advocating, the county salary board has authorized the hiring of six special officers, at salaries of $100 a month each, for four months. These special officers are to act as assistants to County Detective Robert G. Robinson, and all will be under the direction and control of District Attorney Haymaker. Mr. Haymaker will announce the names of those selected to fill these temporary positions in a day or two.

Authority to hire these special officers was given Mr. Haymaker by the salary board, at a meeting held yesterday, at which the district attorney made his recommendations. County Commissioners Mercer, Clark and Evans, Controller Cunningham and County Solicitor Alcorn were present.

Mr. Haymaker stated after adjournment that he had no intention at any time of organizing a county detective bureau. Under the law, he said, there can be but one county detective, but assistants may be employed at times to aid him in his work. At the present time three special officers are employed at Clairton, one being paid by the county and the other two by citizens of the town. The new force is in addition to those already under employment.

Mr. Haymaker says that special officers are more necessary during the summer months than during any other portions of the year, and for that reason he will put the new men at work at once. He did not say how he expected to get competent men to take temporary employment of the nature proposed. Two of the six men will do night duty, reporting at the coroner's office, where the first reports of murders and riots are usually sent. The remainder of the force will be subject to detail by the district attorney.

TWO IMPORTANT INQUESTS.

Elevator and Live Wire Catastrophies to Be Inquired Into Today.

Coroner Jesse M. McGeary will hold the inquest on the death of the four persons who were killed in the elevator accident in the Donnelly building at No. 1026 Fifth avenue on May 22, at 11 o'clock this morning. The inquest on the death of the four persons who were killed by coming in contact with a live wire in front of the Oakland police station on July 4, will be held at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe has arranged to have a stenographer present to take the testimony in the Oakland accident, as he intends to make an investigation of that affair before the police board, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the police neglected their duty that afternoon.

DEATH RESULTED FROM THE FLOOD

An Infant Child of J. O. Cramer of Penn Contracts Pneumonia and Dies.

MAKES A TOTAL OF TWENTY

Father, Mother and Child Were Forced to Spend Sunday Night on Roof of Their Home—Missing List Grows, and It Is Expected More Bodies Will Be Found.

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—After being saved from the flood by the heroic efforts of the father, and undergoing numerous narrow escapes from accident during the storm Sunday afternoon and night a 8-months-old child of J. O. Cramer, of Penn, died from pneumonia late this afternoon.

The Cramer home was struck by the full force of the flood at Penn Sunday and the family saw their household goods and the savings of years carried out and ruined by the rushing waters. Mr. Cramer after a hard struggle succeeded in getting his wife and only child to the roof of their home, where they remained during the night until rescued.

The exposure caused the child to become ill and pneumonia soon developed. Difficulty in securing proper medical attention gave the disease a hold and the little one died at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The parents are prostrated and the mother is in a critical condition.

OPERATING ALL LINES.

Army of Men Repair Damage Done by Jeannette Flood.

It was given out by the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad last night that all the lines affected by Sunday's flood are again in operation. Nearly all the branches in the Jeannette district were badly damaged and traffic tied up. While the roadbeds are not in the condition they were before Sunday, they are in shape to handle traffic. Speaking of the repairs, Mr. Pitcairn said:

"The work of clearing up the debris and putting the roads in operation is done on the same tactics as the mobilization of an army. When the news of the flood reached headquarters word was sent to all parts of the system requesting the officials to send all the men they possibly could. The response was wonderful, as nearly 1,000 men were in the devastated district within 12 hours after the request for men was made. Upon their arrival they were divided into gangs, consequently repairs were being made at all places where the tracks were damaged."

Killed by His Own Engine.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., July 7.—(Special.)—Plunged into the gap made between his engine and tender by the breaking of the coupling pin, Eugene Thompson, one of the oldest engineers on the Consolidated railroad, was crushed to death beneath the tender today while switching. John Downs, his fireman, was also badly bruised. He managed to grasp the frame of the window, and hung between the engine and tender till lifted into safety.

DO YOU OWN A
A BATHING SUIT?

Half the Delight of Sea Bathing Is the Possession of a Becoming Costume.

The less you have on the more becoming it should be. A bathing suit has no hair ribbons, no neck ribbons, no sash ribbons, no lace, no embroidery—none of those accessories that help so much to enhance a woman's charm. So it should be a perfect fit, the correct length, and as neat as possible. See to it that you have your own when you go to the seashore.

Campbell carries bathing suits in sizes to fit children from 3 years old, to the large size of 44.

Children's and misses' black bathing suits, made of serge, for $1.25.

Children's and misses' bathing suits of black and pale mohair, for $2.25, $2.98 and $3.50.

Ladies' blue and black mohair bathing suits, from $2.50 to $7.98, with very good qualities neatly trimmed with white braid, at lower prices.

Mother of Mrs. Fink May Die from the Result of the Shock.

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—In pale cream colored caskets, side by side, the bodies of Henry Fink and his wife, Nellie, are lying tonight in the parlor of their former home, with Mrs. Fink's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doulin, in First street.

Hundreds of friends and acquaintances of the couple visited the house this afternoon and evening, and many brought floral emblems.

In an upstairs room of the house Mrs. Doulin is in a serious condition, the result of a shock caused by the awful tragedy which caused her daughter's death. It is feared she may not survive.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. L. J. Bauman, pastor of the Grace Reformed church, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The interment will take place immediately after the services, in the Jeannette cemetery. The funeral is expected to be the largest ever held in Jeannette, owing to the prominence of both Mr. and Mrs. Fink.

Funeral of Miss Keefer.

Miss Gertrude Keefer will be buried from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Keefer, in Gaskill avenue, at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The funeral services will be conducted in Grace Reformed church by the Rev. J. N. Bauman, and the interment will be in the St. Clair cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Lucy Crum, the companion of Miss Keefer, who lost her life with her on Sunday, will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the family home a short distance from the Keefer residence, in Gaskill avenue.

The funeral services for Miss Crum will also be conducted in Grace Reformed church, and the interment will be made in Jeannette cemetery. The Misses Keefer and Crum were both devout members of Grace Reformed church, and active in religious and charitable circles in Jeannette. Both young ladies were passengers on a street car bound for Greensburg when caught in the flood.

Sidney McClain, a well-known young man of Greensburg, nearly lost his life in an effort to save the girls as they were thrown from the car by the onrush of water. McClain had managed to catch both of them when he came in contact with a live trolley wire and was seriously shocked.

After McClain dropped unconscious the girls were carried on the crest of the flood down the valley. Eye witnesses say both were singing hymns of praise when they disappeared.

John McCann will be buried from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCann, in Port Pitt, at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The interment will be made in the Catholic cemetery at Jeannette.

Conflicting Orders Given.

Joseph Oberle of Indianapolis will be buried tomorrow in Jeannette cemetery. Oberle's body has been at the railroad station since early this morning awaiting instructions as to the burial from his father, who is at present in Louisville, Ky. Conflicting messages had been received here by the undertaker in charge of the remains as to the funeral, but late this afternoon instructions were received to have the interment in Jeannette.

Miss Cissy Bird will be buried from the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Smith, in Cuyler avenue, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The burial will be made in Jeannette cemetery.

Joseph Pusey, who was engaged to marry Miss Bird, will be buried Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The interment will be in Brush Creek cemetery.

THIS COSTS YOU NOTHING

Schilling Bros.' Co. Will Return Your Money if Mi-o-na Does Not Cure Dyspepsia and Increase Flesh.

There are hundreds of people in Pittsburgh who were not the least bit surprised when they read in The Gazette that Schilling Bros.' Co. were selling Mi-o-na under a guarantee to refund the money, in case it did not cure indigestion and increase weight.

This remarkable preparation is a true flesh-forming food, that builds up good, healthy, solid tissues, and makes thinness and scrawniness a thing of the past.

It tones up the digestive organs, and will cure the worst case of indigestion, headache, dizziness or the depressed, weak condition that afflicts nearly everyone who suffers with stomach trouble. Mi-o-na does not simply relieve; it does lasting good.

In 98 out of 100 cases where Mi-o-na is used, the result is a restoration of perfect harmony between height and weight and an absolute and permanent cure of all stomach troubles.

There are today hundreds in Pittsburgh who are recommending Mi-o-na because it cured them. A few months ago they were thin and dyspeptic, and could eat nothing without fear of stomach trouble. Since using Mi-o-na they have made noticeable gain in flesh, can eat what they want, and when they want, without fear of suffering.

Remember that you risk nothing in buying Mi-o-na. If it gives you the desired effect the cost is trifling, if it fails, Schilling Bros.' Co. will pay for the remedy themselves.

COMMISSIONERS AT LAST PROMISE TO GIVE AID

Westmoreland Authorities Will Help to Search for the Dead.

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 7.—No bodies were found today although the search was kept up among the ruins by a large force of men all day. Tomorrow Sheriff John Trescher will place every man he can possibly secure at work searching for missing bodies, and it is proposed to search the rubbish piles and other places in which they might lodge from Oakford park to Irwin.

The citizens have sent an appeal for help to the commissioners of Westmoreland county late today, and the commissioners are said to have informed the men who called on them that aid would be given and plans will be arranged tomorrow.

The commissioners have been tardy in responding to the cry for assistance. There has been much complaint of the lack of system in the search, but if the Westmoreland authorities provide the means it will be possible to speedily clean up the wreckage.

New Cases of Smallpox.

Nine cases of smallpox were reported yesterday. Six were removed to the Municipal hospital. They were Mary Donohue, 18 years old, No. 1305 Ivanhoe street; Charles Pendleton, 37 years old, No. 1017 Our alley; Edward Hains, 41 years old, Center avenue and Vine street; Edward Boyle, 38 years old, rear No. 2112 Penn avenue; Charles Meyers, No. 35 Somers street; John F. Sutton, No. 321 North St. Clair street. The following patients were not removed from their homes: Agnes Lenk, 6 years old; Catherine Lenk, 11 years old, and Alena Doerfler, 20 years old, all of No. 1810 Jane street.

UPTON SEEKS TO HAVE INDICTMENT QUASHED

Pleads That Evidence Against Him Was Obtained by an Illegal Method.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, July 7.—In the United States district court here today a motion was made to quash the indictment against C. Ellsworth Upton, who with Thomas W. McGregor was recently indicted by the federal grand jury charged with complicity in the mail pouch frauds. The point is made that the indictment is illegal because it was found on admissions made by Upton to the fourth assistant postmaster general before whom he was taken and questioned without being told that criminal proceedings were to be instituted against him or that he was at liberty to refuse to give any testimony against himself.

Judge Morris will hear arguments on the motion next Saturday.

New York, July 7.—Abram J. Rose, counsel for George P. Miller, who was indicted by the federal grand jury in Brooklyn which investigated sales of automatic cashiers to the postoffice department, made a motion today for permission to inspect the grand jury minutes. The motion was denied.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Postmaster General Payne today telegraphed that he will arrive here from the Catskills tomorrow evening, instead of this evening, and will resume his duties Thursday morning.

New United Presbyterian Church.

Tomorrow evening the Duquesne Park mission, at Perrysville and Benton avenues, Allegheny, will be organized as a permanent congregation, to be known as the North End United Presbyterian church of Allegheny. A board of trustees has been elected, and three ruling elders will be ordained and installed at the service tomorrow evening. The new church will make the 158th of the United Presbyterian denomination in Allegheny.

MILITARY IN CONTROL OF EVANSVILLE, IND.

Town Is Comparatively Quiet After Riotous Outbreak of Monday Night.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

EVANSVILLE, IND., July 7.—The rioting of last night and the early hours of today has given place to comparative quiet, which may be due largely to the fact that the town is practically under martial law, Gen. McKee being in command. Little business was transacted here during the day.

A company of militia arrived from Terre Haute and other companies are expected late tonight. After a conference with responsible citizens who have organized a public safety committee, Mayor Covert has ordered all saloons closed.

Fred Kappler, aged 15, who was shot by militiamen last night, died this afternoon.

Word reached here tonight that Lee Brown, the negro who caused the race riot, is in such a serious condition that he cannot recover.

Fixings women need for an outing

You'll want ribbons of some sort o' other—for lending additional beauty to your hat or for trimming your outing frock, or for making hair bows, sashes and all manner of trimmings—a big item of expense can be taken from the summer outlay if you take advantage of this offer.

Two great lots of pure silk ribbon, over 1,500 pieces of fine satin taffetas, plain taffeta, fancy stripes and mousseline taffetas, checks and black and white effects. All the pretty summer shades—widths 3½ to 6 in.

You can choose today from the entire display and pay as low a price per yard as 15c and 25c

Veils are indispensable—and to conform with the latest fad you should drape your hat with the latest tobacco brown veils.

These veils are made of splendid quality chiffon, either hemstitched, tucked or embroidered; some have the broad, smart, captivating satin borders, others with chenille or velvet dots. Lengths, 1¼ and 1½ yards.

They present a very chic effect when artistically draped loosely over the hat. Prices 1.59 down to 48c

Dainty fussy neckwear wins like a flower—the kinds to take away on your trip are washable neck pieces.

The secret of the big business we are doing is the varieties we show—that and the prices. Such dainty conceits in stock collars as we offer tomorrow should really be marked at higher prices.

There are plain bands of drawn work, with band made eyelet-wise designs, with medallion front, sprinkled with tiny French knots, also Dutch linen stanchs, fancy madras, embroidered with briar stitching, pearl buttons. Val. lace, etc., all the pretty shades—choice today at 25c and 48c

Be well shod for outing

IT is absolutely necessary that your shoes be helpmeets on your rambles. Shoes that are made without regard to fit will cause you endless distress; you'll walk clumsily, acquire corns and have no end of discontent, unless you buy shoes that are made on a thoroughly dependable basis.

A new pair of oxfords for the man or woman need not necessarily diminish your purse over-much if you take advantage of this offer.

We bought 10,000 pairs of high-grade shoes from one of the country's premier shoe manufacturers. This purchase comprises women's shoes and oxfords made on the latest style lasts for summer wear, in ideal, plain and patent kid, plain lace, blucher and gibson ties, welt and hand welt soles, leather and wood Louis XV. heels, 40 styles to select from.

The men's shoes are made from imported calf patent leather, Corona colt patent leather, and vici kid, high and low cut, lace and blucher pattern, genuine oak soles.

These shoes were made to retail under normal conditions at $3.00 and $3.50, but through our purchase we are enabled to lessen the cost to you from 20 to 40 per cent. Choice today for only 2.25

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Brooklyn at Exposition Park.
Boston at Cincinnati.
Philadelphia at Chicago.
New York at St. Louis.

The Pirates' winning streak was punctured yesterday afternoon by Ned Hanlon's troupe of in-and-outers, who happened to have one of their good days and played all around the locals. The sum up of the opening argument was 5 to 2 in the Brooklynites' favor.

Eddie Doheny, who has not been called upon to do any pitching for the past two weeks because he was nursing an attack of pink eye, essayed to do the twirling for the champions yesterday, and his efforts showed that pink eye must have made him cross-eyed, because he could not locate the home plate often enough to keep him out of difficulties. Eddie was as wild as an electric storm, and the way he kept Catcher Harry Smith doing a wing dance about the home plate was a caution.

Ned Hanlon's pitching selection was Jones, a product of California, who has more preliminary pitching motions than "Herky Jerky" Harlan ever had, and it took him as long to unwind as a Waterbury watch. Add to the first fact that he goes through the first spasms of the boutchee coutchee dance before delivering the ball, and it's no wonder that he has the opposing batters hypnotized. At that, the red-faced son of the golden climate can pitch a few, which he demonstrated to the supreme satisfaction as well as to the utter disgust of the 1,000 spectators present.

The Pirates were once more minus their gallant leader and they showed it at different stages of the contest. The infield was awful wobbly, as shown by the fact that they did not score a run that an error or two did not figure in. To be sure, errors are as much a part of a ball game as hits and runs, and the best of them make them, but yesterday's mix-ups were some made yesterday that there could be no excuse offered for. However, there is no use kicking over a defeat because they have been coming seldom enough of late, besides, the public was getting tired of all wins, which takes the interest out of a pennant race.

If the real truth must be told about the defeat, the whole can be chalked up to Mr. Jones, whose preliminary motions are as numerous as a new lawyer in his first case. There were stages in yesterday's contest where a base hit would have been worth as much as a shelter shed during last Saturday's or Sunday's storms, but these hits, like the shelter sheds, were missing, and with them went all hopes of a Pirate victory. The trouble was that Mr. Jones was entirely too good and his support was in accord with his pitching.

The visitors started to do business right off the reel, as Dexter was given a pass in first inning on a base on balls to Sheckard, a single by Doyle and an ugly mix-up by the infield, in which a wild throw by Weaver cut quite a figure in the deal. The latter was chalked up by Doyle, which an error by Wagner was largely responsible for, in the seventh Strang led off with a single and Sheckard reached on two infield fumbles. Both got around on Doyle's hunt, Dahlen's life which forced Doyle at second, and they scored on Gessler's single to right.

For the Pirates, Sebring drove the ball to left center for three bases in the first and scored on Sheckard's wild throw to third. In the third Beaumont doubled to right and scored on Wagner's double to the same field. There were other chances for scores, but hits were scarce. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

There was a report yesterday that the Pittsburgh officials had secured the services of Catcher Dourlass of the Philadelphia team to play first base during the enforced lay-off of Branscield, but the big Quaker failed to put in an appearance.

Manager Clarke was reported in a much improved condition yesterday, and he thinks that he will be able to get back into the game in a few days. Another exhibition such as the Pirates put up yesterday will drive Clarke back into the game at once, regardless of the doctor's orders.

Notwithstanding that Doheny had nine strike-outs to his credit yesterday, he was very wild and often pitched himself into holes that it was hard to get out of. Eddie had both Dobbs and Gessler on his staff and they proved marks for his curves. Dobbs struck out three times and Gessler twice. Pitcher Jones was also a two-time victim.

Gessler, who covered right field for the Brooklyn team, is the old Wash.-Jeff. baseball and football player and when he first appeared at bat he was given a round of applause. "Brownie" was somewhat handicapped by Doheny's curves in the first two times at bat, but in the seventh inning he smashed out a hit that was worth its weight, as it brought in two runs.

Catcher Weaver is making a fine effort at first base, but the big fellow still has a lot to learn before he will make a success at the position. In the second inning yesterday Sheckard's drive to Weaver should have been easy for the first baseman, but unfortunately Weaver forgot to go after the ball. It is plays of that kind that makes the absence of the regular man so noticeable.

President Harry Pulliam, who has been here for the past three days, left last night for Cincinnati, where he will talk over baseball affairs with Garry Herrmann, president of the Reds. Pulliam had nothing new to report in the Davis case, not having heard a word from Ban Johnson during the afternoon Harry had a long quiet chat with President Ebbetts and Manager Hanlon of the Brooklyn team, but the nature of the conference was kept quiet.

In the fifth inning the visitors had the bases filled with but one out, and Flood, who was at bat, drove the ball to Ritchey, who apparently touched Ritter, who was on his way to second, and then he shot the ball to first ahead of Flood and a double play was claimed, but not allowed by the umpire, who said Ritchey had not touched Ritter. Even if the umpire's claims of not touching Ritter was right, the runner was out just the same, as he had run clear out of the base line to avoid the man with the ball. The Pirates made a strong kick, but it was of no avail.

The Pirates' infield got beautifully mixed up in the first inning, and the efforts of the players were laughable to the spectators. Sheckard was on second base when Doyle slugged to right, and of course Sheckard raced for the plate. Sebring made the throw for home, but Doheny intercepted the throw and sent the ball to second in plenty of time to head off Doyle. Hans chased Doyle back toward first and then threw to Weaver, and Doyle, seeing that second was uncovered, set sail for the base. Weaver's throw to Wagner was wild and Doyle easily reached third. One of the ouffielders should have been in and covered second in the absence of Ritchey, who had given chase to Doyle's fly.

WICKER HIT HARD.

Zimmer's Team Took First Game from Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 7.—The visitors hit Wicker at the right time in four innings and with a little good base running won easily. Duggleby kept the locals guessing, excepting in the sixth, when two passes, two errors and a pair of singles gave them three runs. Attendance, 1,200. Score:

BEATEN BY BOSTON.

Poole Pitched Well, but So Did Platt.

CINCINNATI, July 7.—Boston took the first game from Cincinnati today by a score of 5 to 3. The errors of Donlin and Seymour in the third inning were very costly, giving Boston two runs. Poole pitched a good game, but the players behind him could not hit when they had men on the bases. Attendance, 2,500. Score:

THE GIANTS BEATEN.

Currie Pitched Donovan's Team to Fine Victory.

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—In a game that was hard fought all the way St. Louis won from New York today. The match was very close and exciting, but the St. Louis team, by fast playing, kept the visitors from scoring. Currie, who pitched for the locals, was effective in right places. Attendance 1,200. J. E. PORTER WNS JUDGE RODGERS CUP

The tie between J. E. Porter and Joseph Rohrbacher of the Edgeworth Golf club was played off yesterday afternoon and resulted in a victory for the former by 1 up in 18 holes. The winner gets the cup offered by Judge Elliott Rodgers. Mr. Porter's victory is well earned, he having given Mr. Rohrbacher 9 holes handicap. They met for the first time Monday and the result was a tie.

The Hilldales are without games for July 11 and 18, and would like to play at home. Any good team of either city can secure a game by calling up Burgess, 1427-R North, between 6 and 8:30 p. m., or by addressing J. D. Burgess, No. 213 Bell avenue, Allegheny.

The Harwood A. C. of Sheraden will play the O'Brien A. C. of Bankeville Saturday on the Harwood's grounds. They would like to arrange a game with some 10 or 11-year-old team for July 18, to be played at home. Address Bennett Cutshall, Sheradenville.

The Cabinet A. C. will play the Plenny A. C. this evening at 6:30. The following players are requested to report: Hollar, John, 6 o'clock; L. Conrad, Llewellyn, Dischner, Nickel, G. Conrad, Andrews, McKinley, Dougherty, Schriesel, E. Dischner and Burdick.

Glenshaw plays Natural Athletics Saturday at Glenshaw. Langhorst will twirl for Glenshaw, while Luther will be on the rubber for the visitors, who have made a fine record this season. Glenshaw is without a game for July 18 and would like to hear from any good team. Address T. W. Kinsey, Bennett, Pa.

BURGESS ED. HICKEY RETIRES FROM BASEBALL AS MANAGER

Edward Hickey, the burgess of Millvale and one of the best known managers of amateur baseball teams in Western Pennsylvania, has about retired from the game as a manager. Hickey last night tendered his resignation to the officers of the Etna Athletic association as manager of the nine. Because of his business interests and lack of time to devote to the managemanship of the team, his resignation was accepted. The officials immediately choose Tom Kinsey, a protege of Hickey, as his successor. Kinsey played with Hickey on the Millvale team. When Hickey went to Etna this spring Kinsey took the managemanship of the Glenshaw club. Kinsey should make a good man for his new club.

As a judge of young players Hickey does not have a peer in the amateur or semi-professional ranks. He has turned out many players who later developed into star performers, and those that he sent to the minor and big leagues stayed. He would not recommend a man unless he was a good one, and consequently his judgment was respected by the managers of the league teams. Among the players who got their early baseball training under him are Bobby Wallace, the premier shortstop of the American league, who is playing the position for the St. Louis nine, and Otto Jordan, with the Brooklyn National league. Walter Orbin, captain of this year's University of Pennsylvania nine, was brought out by him. Orbin, who is considered one of the best college shortstops in the business, gives Hickey credit for his baseball education. Pitcher Cushman, with the Des Moines Western league, was brought out in this locality by him and the players in the other minor leagues are many.

Burgess Hickey was also very popular with the players. Hickey has been identified with the game for the past 15 years and the amateurs lose a man who is a credit to the game.

THE AMERICAN SCULLER WAS EASILY BEATEN

Jimmy Juvenal of the Vesper Club Made a Very Poor Showing in Henley Regatta.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HENLEY, ENGLAND, July 7.—The attendance at the opening of the annual regatta here today was remarkably smaller than usual. The weather was threatening and a strong wind was blowing. The only race of special interest to America was the heat for the diamond sculls. Juvenal of the Vesper Boat club, Philadelphia, was defeated by Beresford. The time was 9 minutes 30 seconds.

Juvenal sculled down to the start in a white-sleeved jersey and a sweater, both of the Vesper Boat club on his chest. Mrs. Juvenal was given a seat in the umpire's launch, the Hibernia, and the American flag which she carried was dragged with her husband's colors. The sun shone brightly and though there was still some wind it had considerably lessened in strength since the morning.

The Philadelphian's opponent had the shelter of the Buckinghamshire bushes and undoubtedly gained some advantage from this position, but the Englishman was good enough to have won from any position for he led from the first stroke and Juvenal never caught him. The visitors only sculled 32 in the first minute to Beresford's 34, and was two lengths behind at the finish. When he moved in a little nearer the shore he made a favorable impression on the leader, who was several lengths to the good when Fayler boathouse was passed. In four minutes and 26 seconds after this the Philadelphian was beaten and could evidently do no more and Beresford eased up and won by a length and three-quarters.

Munroe, for Washington, Beats 'Scholastic Nine.

WASHINGTON, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—The All-Interscholastics of Pittsburgh could not hit Munroe, the local collegian when safeties would have sent in runners, and lost a twilight game this evening 6 to 3. It was a good game all the way through. Wilson, for the visitors, also pitched good ball. The feature was the brilliant playing of Kenney. Muldoon and Price covered third, while the latter was stealing second and the local man was knocked out for some time. Score:

HOMESTEAD AGAIN.

Risher's Outfit Takes Second Game from Greenville.

GREENVILLE, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—The game between Homestead and Greenville today was fast and clean cut. The visitors won by bunching their hits, which the locals were unable to do. Cline pitched a fine game and Starr, who was put behind the bat because of Lincoln's injuries, did well. Score:

Elks Play at Monessen Today.

MONESSEN, PA., July 7.—(Special.)—The Monessen Elks will play the Uniontown Elks at Athletic park, this city, tomorrow. This will be the second game between these two teams, Uniontown may pitch Harry Wilhelm, late of the Albany team of the New York State league. Bill Gray and Tom Quinn, the old Braddock Blues' battery, will be in the points for Monessen. The Pittsburgh Steel Giants, Monessen's colored team, will play the California Normal school team here tomorrow. Friday the Giants will play the Charleroi Athletic club and Saturday the Casino Athletic club of Pittsburgh.

NEW YORK, July 7.—In a game full of stirring incidents and prolonged beyond the usual nine innings, Chicago beat New York today. The game had progressed peacefully until the seventh, when Green made a kick on Sheridan's deciding him out at first. Green was ordered from the game, and while on the bench said something to watch the umpire took exception. Sheridan walked over and Green met him half way. A mix-up followed, in which Green's head was cut with Sheridan's mask and the umpire's face was bruised. Police, players and spectators prevented further hostilities, and Sheridan was marched off to the police station. Green refused to make a charge and Sheridan was released on bail to answer a charge of disorderly conduct. Williams lost the game for the locals by poor base running. The score:

PLANS OF FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

Cecil Rhodes' Educational Scheme Has Now Taken a Definite Shape.

ALL MAY ENTER COMPETITION

Trustees Make Public a Memorandum for Use of Those Students in United States Who Are Desirous of Getting Free Education at Oxford University.

(By Associated Press to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, July 7.—The trustees of the will of Cecil Rhodes have prepared a memorandum for the information of colleges authorities and intending candidates for Rhodes scholarships in the United States. The first election will be held between February and May, 1904, and the elected scholars will commence residence in October.

A qualifying examination will be held in each state and territory, or at centers which can be easily reached. This examination is not competitive, but is intended to give assurance that all candidates are fully qualified to enter on a course of study at Oxford university. It will be based on the requirements for the first public examination enacted by the university from each candidate for a degree. The Rhodes scholars will be selected from candidates who have successfully passed this examination. One scholar will be chosen for each state and territory to which scholarships are assigned.

The committee and universities making appointments will be furnished with a statement of the qualifications. It has been decided that all scholars shall have reached at least the end of their second year's work at some recognized degree granting university or college of the United States. Scholars must be unmarried, must be citizens of the United States and must be between 19 and 25 years of age.

Candidates may elect whether they will apply for the scholarship of the state in which they have acquired educational qualification, or for that of the state in which they have their residence. They must be prepared to put themselves for examination in the state they select. No candidate may compete in more than one state.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTIONS

Two Special Trains Left for Denver and One for Atlanta.

Two delegations of church workers left Pittsburgh last night. One goes to Denver, Col., and the other to Atlanta, Ga. Three special trains were run by the Pennsylvania railroad to accommodate the delegates, and several went over the Baltimore & Lake Erie.

The Denver delegation left to attend the twenty-fifth International biennial convention of the Society of Christian Endeavor union, to be held in that city July 9 to 12. This party occupied two special trains of Pullman coaches. The trains left Philadelphia yesterday morning at 11:30 and arrived in Pittsburg at 9 o'clock last night.

Quite a number of Pittsburghers boarded the train at the Union Station. Among them were the following: The Rev. William Shaefer, W. M. MacMillin, W. N. Stone, Miss Margaret King, Philip Irving, John F. Otto, Miss Adelia Hiller, Miss Nannie Hunter, Miss May Stein, Miss Elizebeth Summerson, Miss Mary Holliday, Miss Margaret Means, Miss Daisy Everhart, Miss Anna Swift, Miss Lottie Stedeford, Miss Ella Kilgore, Miss Margaret McMurray, Miss Amelia Bollstein, Miss Estella Bollstein, Miss Louisa Ihzer, Mrs. Mary Metz, Miss Mary E. Metz, Miss Jean Loughridge, Miss Margaret Loughridge, Miss Helen Loughridge, Miss Mary McClure, Miss M. Wycoff, Miss Edna Howard L. Trussell, Miss Lauderpaugh, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stauff, Charles P. Bertram.

The second delegation left in a special train for Atlanta, Ga., where they will attend the convention of the Baptist Young People's union, to be held July 9 to 12. About 100 were in the party, among them being F. J. Ebbick and daughter, F. D. Yourison, Harry Bainbridge and J. S. Adams, who had charge of the Pittsburgh party. It is expected that 5,000 will be present at the convention from all parts of the United States and Canada.

FORMER DETECTIVE IS MADE A JANITOR

William McElroy Resigns from Fourteenth Ward School Board to Get a Job.

The plan of the Citizens members of the Fourteenth ward school board to elect a male supervisor to supplant the female principals and assistants failed to materialize, the board last night re-electing the old principals and corps of teachers with the exception of one teacher who decided to quit teaching voluntarily. The board had a meeting in the Bellefield school, the session lasting from 8 o'clock until after midnight.

William McElroy, a member of the school board for many years and formerly of the city detective force, resigned from the school board to be elected janitor of Soho school. C. F. Auferheide was elected to fill the vacancy on the board. Auferheide was formerly a Republican member of the board, but was defeated for re-election when the Citizens carried the ward. Contracts were let for the painting of the Soho and Bellefield school houses.

Miss Mary A. Rosser was not a candidate for re-election as teacher in Soho school and Miss Naughton was chosen as her successor.

Will Be Schwab's Guests.

The Homestead school board will leave Saturday evening for Boston via Buffalo as the guests of Charles M. Schwab, who extended the invitation when in Homestead attending the dedication. The board will visit New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City and be absent two weeks.

THE VILSACK OPENING.

But One Opinion of the New Jewelry Establishment in the Farmers Bank Building.

With a profusion of the beauties of nature and art "The finest Jewelry Establishment in Pittsburgh" formally opened its doors yesterday.

A general and genial invitation from L. W. Vilsack & Co., Farmers Bank building, was widely accepted with the result that there was a stream of people in and out of the beautiful store throughout the day.

The long, impressive salesroom was transformed into a veritable reception hall, where the public mingled to admire the praise the perfect good taste and art displayed in the rich equipment which made a fitting setting for the exquisite stock on exhibition. While money has been spent lavishly in making the new store one of the very finest in America the time has come it could not fail to be impressed with the quiet air of elegance which marked the store's ensemble. The plans were well thought out, and expert skill carried these plans to a happy conclusion. Solid mahogany from first to last is the only finish used, daintily tinted walls and ceilings highly enhance the beauty and effect of the rich designing. Utility, solidity and an entire freedom from meaningless was kept in view constantly, nothing was sacrificed to gain time. Unique and artistic features are everywhere in evidence in the arrangement. A perfect window done in rich mahogany is the first to greet the visitor, and from that down through the store to the suits of offices and dainty reception room in the rear the scheme of arrangement is faultless. Ample room is given to each department, and everywhere is there an abundance of softly shaded light.

The enterprise and progressiveness that made such a store possible is but another evidence of the strides that Pittsburgh is making towards metropolitan excellence in its mercantile establishments.

DROWNED LOVERS WILL REST SIDE BY SIDE

Single Grave to Contain the Remains of Eva May Wigginton and Albert J. Brown.

Side by side in a single grave in the Allegheny cemetery will repose the bodies of Miss Eva May Wigginton and Albert J. Brown, the young lovers who lost their lives in Sunday's disaster at Jeannette. A double funeral this afternoon from the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church at Wylie avenue and Kirkpatrick street, will mark the last sad chapter in their tragic-blighted courtship which a few months hence, had they survived, would have terminated in their marriage.

The bodies were brought to the city early yesterday afternoon. Miss Wigginton's remains were taken to the residence of Mrs. Amelia Wigginton of No. 5 Watt street, and the body of Mr. Brown was laid in the drawing room in the home of his father, the Rev. N. L. Brown, pastor of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church.

The double funeral will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. T. N. Boyle, presiding elder of the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, assisted by several other local pastors who were acquainted with the young people. A selected choir of 20 voices will lead the singing. The following pallbearers were chosen for Mr. Brown: William Davis, George Sunderland, Elias J. John, John W. Holmes, Harry Brashear and Charles Hutchinson. Those who will carry Miss Wigginton's casket are: Walter Raymond, Parker Andrews, Howard Salkeld, Samuel Taylor, John H. Hooper and Clifford Hartford.

ONE MAN WAS KILLED AND FIVE HURT IN WRECK

Passenger Train Crashes Into a Freight on a Curve Near Alliance, O.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ALLIANCE, O., July 7.—A headend collision occurred tonight at Berlin Center, 12 miles northeast of here, when passenger train No. 211, due here at 8:05 p. m., and an eastbound freight on the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula railroad came together on a sharp curve at full speed. The dead:

CECIL MCKNIGHT, passenger fireman, aged 26 and single, of Espyville, Pa., instantly killed.

The injured:

C. D. WALKER, baggage master, of Alliance, badly cut about the head.

F. W. MYERS, brakeman, New Castle, right leg and right rib contused.

LOUIS STYER of Hamilton, salesman for Charles Brehm of Cincinnati, badly cut about head and body.

HARRY C. BIZANDT, Cleveland, salesman, cuts and bruises.

Styer was brought to the hospital at Alliance. Several other passengers had minor cuts and bruises.

The freight had orders to run to a siding not many yards beyond the spot where the wreck occurred. The orders were given under a misapprehension that the passenger train had been delayed at Alliance, giving the freight time to make the siding.

THE DEATH ROLL

Michael John Mellody.

Michael John Mellody, 72 years old, who had the distinction of being the last man to work in the old plant of the Pennsylvania Forge Company, which was located for many years on a portion of the ground now occupied by Second avenue, east of the South Tenth street bridge, died yesterday morning at his home, Hoosac and Alger streets, Greenfield. Mr. Mellody had been ill dating from last November and for the past three months had been seriously ill with bronchitis, which caused his death. Mr. Mellody was born in Castle Blakely, County Galway, Ireland. He came to the United States in July, 1858, coming direct to Pittsburgh, where he had resided since. About 12 years ago Mr. Mellody and his family removed to Greenfield. Shortly after arriving in Pittsburgh Mr. Mellody secured employment at the Pennsylvania forge plant and continued in service at the plant for 25 years. While employed there he filled a number of positions, among them being shearman in the sheet mill and later manager of that branch of the plant. Mr. Mellody was recognized as an expert in his line of work, and William J. Hammond, the last owner of the forge, when he was told of Mr. Mellody's death last night, said that Mr. Mellody was a very skilled workman and manager, and that he had known him personally for many years. When the plant was shut down and finally abandoned Mr. Mellody retired from active life and since had lived in retirement. Mr. Mellody took an active interest in politics and kept pace with the leading political questions of the day. He was an ardent Democrat, and never voted any other ticket. Mr. Mellody married in Pittsburgh and is survived by his widow and four children: Miss Annie A., John J., Edward and Edward L. Mellody, the latter being connected with the business department of The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph, and Sadie A., who is a member of the Order of Our Lady of Mercy and known in religious life as Sister M. Joseph. Sister Joseph was for some years stationed at the Mercy convent in Webster avenue, but for the past year has been at the St. Xavier academy at Beatty station, near Latrobe. Mr. Mellody was for 25 years a member of the old St. Paul's cathedral congregation, but since St. Rosalia's parish was organized in Greenfield he had been a member of that congregation. Funeral services will be held over his remains at St. Rosalia's church Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock, when requiem high mass will be celebrated by the pastor, the Rev. Henry McEvoy, who will be assisted by the Rev. Stephen Walsh, chaplain of the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy in Oakland, and the Rev. Father McShanahan. Father Walsh, who was formerly stationed at the cathedral will deliver the eulogy at the services.

Joseph Mitchell McCreery.

Joseph Mitchell McCreery, 58 years old, a former well know coal operator in the Monongahela valley, died of heart disease at his home, No. 317 Ninth avenue, Homestead. He had been in ill health since Christmas, since which time he had traveled extensively in the south. Mr. McCreery returned home about Easter, and since had been seriously ill. He was a native of Beaver, Pa., but had been a resident of Pittsburgh and vicinity for the past 10 years. He was a former member of the coal firms of Seward, Hays and W. S. B. Hays of Munhall. Mr. McCreery was a son-in-law of Chief Engineer Bailey of the Homestead steel works. Besides his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth C. McCreery, he is survived by two daughters, the Misses Anna Lyle and Elizabeth E., and three sons, William B., Albert H. and Joseph S. McCreery, all at home. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church, Homestead, and after the funeral services his remains will be taken to Beaver for interment.

Louis Schulze Cowan.

Louis Schulze Cowan, 16 years old, died on Monday at his home at Sturgeon Hall postoffice, Baldwin township, of typhoid fever. He was graduated a week ago from the Knoxville High school and it is thought that over study brought on the illness. He was a son of William T. Cowan, a commissioner of Baldwin township and a former justice of the peace of that place. At a meeting of the graduating class yesterday resolutions of sympathy were passed.

Robert Hayes.

Robert Hayes, 71 years old, died last evening of asthma at his home, No. 117 Minton avenue, Edgewood. He was born in Ireland and came to this country eight years ago. He is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

Milton Davis Marsh.

Milton Davis Marsh, 32 years old, died yesterday at the Passavant hospital after an operation for kidney trouble. He was a son of Cornelius Marsh of No. 716 Frankstown avenue, East Liberty, who, with several brothers and sisters of the deceased, survive.

Miss Myrtle Hootin.

Miss Myrtle Hootin, 17 years old, died last evening at her home, No. 108 Stanwix street, Mt. Washington, of paralysis of the heart. Miss Hootin had been ill for the past 12 years and her collapse was due to her prolonged illness.

Obituary Notes.

Cyrus Kuntz, editor and proprietor of the Item of Allentown, died yesterday of paralysis. He was 49 years of age and leaves a widow and five daughters.

Mrs. Mary Roberts, 60 years old, for many years a resident of the South Side, is dead at the family home, No. 2748 Oakley street. Her husband, Evan P. Roberts, and three children survive.

The Hon. J. S. Hyer died at his home in Sutton, W. Va., yesterday of typhoid fever. Mr. Hyer was one of Braxton county's most prominent business men and politicians. He was 58 years old.

FIGHT RENEWED IN ALLEGHENY

Attack Upon the Delinquent Tax Office Said to Have But Begun.

SPECIAL MEETING IS CALLED

The fight on the question of whether or not Allegheny is to have a delinquent tax office in the future was only started on Monday night, according to a number of councilmen who are favorable to the ordinance introduced providing for the abolition of the office. This story is given strength by the fact that a special meeting of the select branch has been called for to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time Councilman Lee C. Beatty of the Sixth ward will once more introduce an ordinance asking that the office of delinquent tax collector be abolished and that the city treasurer be made the collector of delinquent taxes.

Notices of the call of the meeting were sent out yesterday by City Clerk Lafayette Wills. This caused a lot of comment on the North Side, and the significance of the call was the subject of much speculation last night. It is understood that select council will hear the reading of the ordinance and will constitute itself a committee of the whole, report favorably on the ordinance and send it over to the common branch. This can be done under the rules governing Allegheny councils. It will then be up to common council to act on the measure, and every member of that branch will be forced to show his hand.

There is no doubt now regarding the stand Mayor Wyman has taken. He defined his position yesterday while talking to a number of councilmen in city hall. Approaching one member who had voted for a favorable report on the ordinance on Monday night, the mayor said:

"Well, I see you voted against us last night."

"I voted as I thought any man should who was elected on the ticket with you last February," was the answer, and Mayor Wyman turned on his heel and walked away.

President Francis J. Torrance of the select branch would say nothing last night regarding the purpose of calling the special meeting, except that the Ashton street bond issue would be considered. This issue amounts to but $75,000, and it is generally likely that a special meeting would be called for the purpose of considering this.

Councilman Lee C. Beatty, who introduced the ordinance asking for the abolition of the delinquent tax office, said yesterday that he would certainly introduce another ordinance which in substance would be the same as that at first put into the select branch and reported favorably by the finance committee in the finance committee on Monday.

The action of Dr. H. F. Fredericks in voting against the measure on Monday night caused a lot of talk in Allegheny yesterday. Up until Monday afternoon Fredericks was expected to support the measure.

It is expected that a large crowd will attend the meeting of the select branch tomorrow afternoon and that the members of that branch will not go into the meeting without instructions from their constituents.

LOCAL MEN TO GIVE MEXICO NEW RAILWAY

Pittsburghers are reported to be preparing to give the City of Mexico a modern electric street railway and that M. R. McAdoo of New York, a prominent traction manager and formerly general manager of the street railway interests of Garrett A. Hobart, is to take active charge of the new line. It is reported the Pittsburgh capitalists have purchased the horse car line of the Mexican Traction Company and have received concessions and rights of way from the Mexican government to build about 100 miles of additional tracks. The company is reported to be capitalized at $250,000. Among the local men said to be interested are Samuel Lauer, Reuben Miller, James H. Park, Julius Beller, Charles Clapp and Frank Smith.

SOCIETY

MISS Mary C. Mellon and her brother, Edward P. Mellon, left last evening for New York, whence they will sail on the Hamburg line for Europe. They will be abroad all summer. Miss Mary Mellon joining a party of New York friends for a tour of Europe.

Mrs. Andrew W. Mellon has been in London since early in June, when she went over to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. McMullen in London. Mrs. McMullen gave up the handsome place she had in the country and went to London in the spring. Mr. Mellon will spend a portion of the summer with his wife, and together they will return to Pittsburgh in September. Their place in Forbes avenue, near Morewood, was never so handsome as this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon find their home at Beechwood boulevard and Fifth avenue so delightful at this season that they are making no plans to go away for the summer. Since their marriage several years ago, they have traveled extensively that this summer will find them at home most of the time. Mrs. Mellon's mother, Mrs. Alexander King, will also spend the summer at her home, Barwood, in North Negley avenue, East end.

Hanna—McMahon.

Miss Nellie Gertrude Hanna, one of the best known young women of Braddock, and Daniel McMahon of Coatsville, Chester county, Pa., were married last evening at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church, Braddock, by the Rev. William G. Ramge. The bride wore white mousseline de sole over white brocaded silk and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Mr. and Mrs. McMahon leave this morning for a short visit to the bride's brother in Mt. Clemens, Mich., and will then make a home at Fifth street, Lakeside. The bride has been a teacher in the Braddock primary schools and was associated with the Carnegie Club Dramatic society of Braddock. After August 1 the couple will be at home in Seventh street, Braddock.

Piano Recital at Edgeworth.

A piano recital will be given by the junior pupils of Miss Lenore Hadley of Edgeworth at her residence Saturday evening of this week. Miss Hadley's brother, Eugene Hadley, who has a studio in New York, will be present and assist. Among the pupils who will take part are Elizabeth Nevin, Marguerite Booth, William Booth, Mary Ruth Ker, Sara Chaplin, Hazel Eakewell, Sabene McClung, Maud Dine, Blanche Dine, Gladys Lowrie, Margaret Nevin, Dean Cooper, Frances Whitney, Clara Koch, James McKinney, Katherine Harlow, Dorothy Carpenter, Helen Hespenger, Nannette Huston, Karl Pettit and Hannah Watson.

Lawn Party at Sewickley.

A pretty lawn party was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. James Huston, on the handsome lawn of her home in Academy avenue, Sewickley. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Huston's two daughters, Misses Nanette and Hayselle, and their four house guests, Miss Florence Huston of Columbus and Miss Hazel Detweiler, Miss Carolina McMacne and Miss Irene Taylor of Toledo. The lawn was very pretty with its many colored tables and the white gowns of the young girls. Assisting the hostess were Miss Isabel Wardrop, Miss Katherine Harlow, Miss Elizabeth Blair and Miss Sara Chaplin.

A New Lockhart Heiress.

Friends of the Lockhart family are very much interested in the new heiress to the Lockhart millions, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robison McCune, a granddaughter of Charles Lockhart, the well-known Standard Oil man. Though numbering her days still by hours, little Miss McCune has a kingdom of her own, for she is the first daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCune, who have two lusty boys, Charles Lockhart McCune and John Robison McCune IV. Mrs. McCune is Mr. Lockhart's eldest daughter.

Young People at Duquesne Garden.

Mrs. Lawrence Dilworth of Fifth and Morewood avenues, Shadyside, gave a smart theater party, composed of young people, last evening at Duquesne garden. The girls and boys were the friends of her young daughter, Miss Dorothy Dilworth, and included Miss Katherine E. Jennings, Miss Mary Brooke Jennings, Miss Margaretta Frew, Miss Virginia Frew, Miss Pauline Dilworth, Miss Caroline Hays, Jack C. Dilworth, Lawrence D. Beggs, William Howland, John Crosean Blair and James Speer Blair. After the play supper was served in the palm garden.

Returning from Their Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. James Irwin Rees are expected home from their wedding trip tomorrow. Mrs. Rees will be remembered as Miss Amelia Stenger. The wedding was a brilliant event late in June. Mr. and Mrs. Rees spent their honeymoon in New York and Boston and at Newport, and made a tour of the White mountains and the Hudson river. They will live with Mrs. Rees' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Stenger, Forbes and Murdock avenues, Squirrel hill, where they will be at home after September 1.

Entertaining a New York Girl.

Miss Helen Case of New York city has been spending two weeks with Miss Ethel Fyram at her home in Penn avenue, Homewood. Several small and informal affairs have been given for her, including porch teas and drives through the parks. Miss Fyram will leave in a few weeks to make a visit in Ohio.

Miller—Dannals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Hazelwood announce the marriage of their daughter, Myrtle May, to Harry F. Dannals, Jr., of Crafton, Pa., on July 4. Until September Mr. and Mrs. Dannals will be at home to their friends at No. 4725 Blair street, Hazelwood.

An International Marriage.

Miss Frances Whitehouse, eldest daughter of W. Pitcairn Whitehouse of Newport, R. I., and Baron Constantin Ramsay, a gentleman-in-waiting to the czar, were married at St. Peter's church, Eaton square, London, England, yesterday. The grand duke Michael of Russia, Ambassador and Mrs. Choate, the Russian ambassador, Count Benckendorf, and Countess Benckendorf, were present among other distinguished personages.

Boating Club Organized.

A number of Oakmont people who are fond of boating have formed a boating club, which is to be an exclusive organization with 75 members. A club house, to cost $10,000, will be built and an impetus given to boating, with special attention paid to canoeing. A committee has been appointed to find a site for the club house, which will be modern in every particular.

Mrs. Westinghouse Returned.

Mrs. George Westinghouse and her son, George Westinghouse III., arrived at the Homewood station last evening and "solitude" was opened for their home-coming. Their visit this time will be short, as they will only remain in Pittsburgh a week.

ASK LARGE DAMAGES.

Leaseholders Are Taking Advantage of the Widening of Virgin Alley.

Persons holding leases for a number of years on property affected by the widening of Virgin alley are taking advantage of the improvement to ask for unusually large damages. Justin Pisrat, a barber who has a shop in the basement in Liberty avenue, claims $8,680 damages by reason of the widening of Virgin alley. He says his shop would be destroyed. The board of viewers yesterday received his claim, but stated that his figures were purely speculative. He was told to come back later.

Several real estate men who were called to give testimony in behalf of J. G. Lauer, resulted before the board yesterday. Lauer's claim has been before the board for three days. On real estate man said Lauer's lease was worth $8,000 a year before the improvement and would be worth $7,800 afterwards. Another witness thought the lease would be worth $10,000, in view of the fact that it had eight years yet to run.

BIGGER ELECTED MAJOR.

Capt. James H. Bigger of Morganza was elected major of the third battalion of the Eighteenth regiment on the eighth ballot last evening. Capt. C. C. Huff, commanding Company B, and Capt. W. K. Reifsnyder of Company E were the other candidates. The election was conducted by Lieut. Col. J. C. Kay. The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Maj. R. W. A. Simmons, who had served about 25 years in the National Guard. Of the 34 commissioned line officers 29 attended the election.

The regiment is still shy a regimental quartermaster and an assistant surgeon. The latter position will probably be given Lieut. Edward M. Hall of Company M. The election was held at the new armory, known as the old Clark mansion.

...IGELOW STARTS ANOTHER FIGHT

Common Council Called to Withdraw Duquesne Way Ordinance from Committee.

BROWN MADE STRONG DENIAL

Twentieth Ward Member Explains Why He Signed the Call—He Has Not Changed His Position—Mayor Hays Leaves the City.

The Duquesne way railroad ordinance continues to be juggled back and forth between common council and the joint corporations committee. At the instance of Director E. M. Bigelow a call was issued yesterday for a special meeting of the lower branch of councils tomorrow night, when it is proposed to withdraw the Pennsylvania measure from the corporations committee and pass it. This will precipitate another fight and means a repetition of the scenes of a week ago Monday, when the debate on the ordinance continued until nearly 3 o'clock in the morning.

The Duquesne way ordinance has been in the corporations committee at least three times. Once it was approved and recommended to councils, practically without any change. The second time a meeting of the committee was prevented by the failure to obtain a quorum, and the third time, last Friday night, the committee meeting was broken up by the heat and the noise of persons celebrating the Fourth of July in front of the city hall.

Director Bigelow controlled the committee, but was not able to persuade Chairman George W. McNeil to call it together again to take up the ordinance. He then determined to call common council in special session this week to take the ordinance from the committee and to pass it finally if possible.

Brown Signed the Call.

Owing to the absence of President C. S. Crawford and the refusal of Mayor Hays to issue a call, the signatures of one-third of the members was secured for the purpose, and upon the authority of the following 17 common councilmen the call was issued yesterday by the city clerk: John J. Hughes, Fifth ward; Thomas Delaney, First ward; John Martin, Fourth ward; John Walls, Thirtieth ward; J. K. Wymard, Twenty-first ward; John Lauer, Fourteenth ward; David Lewis, Twenty-fifth ward; W. H. Barker, Twenty-third ward; Richard McNally, Thirteenth ward; John Hogue, Thirty-fourth ward; William Brand, Seventeenth ward; Jacob Schuck, Thirty-first ward; W. B. Wolfe, Twenty-second ward; Thomas M. Brown, Twentieth ward; C. Bockert, Jr., Fourteenth ward; Henry Fitzpatrick, Eleventh ward; J. P. Sterreti, Nineteenth ward.

This list shows a combination of Citizens and Republicans. It also shows the names of two members who have opposed the passage of the ordinance without a compensation clause, namely, Thomas M. Brown of the Twentieth ward, and W. B. Wolfe of the Twenty-second ward. These two members were charged yesterday with deserting the compensation advocates.

Councilman Brown claimed yesterday that his signing of the call did not change his views concerning the ordinance. "I still hold the same position I did before," he said. "I signed the call only because I was told that there was urgent business to transact before fall, and that my signing it would only save the trouble of getting other signatures. I notified the persons who brought the call around that it would not change my attitude toward the Duquesne way ordinance.

Denies He Has Flopped.

"My vote Thursday night will show that I have not changed. The ordinance cannot be passed finally Thursday night without a suspension of the rules and I do not think that they can get enough votes to suspend the rules."

As stated by Councilman Brown three-fourths of the members present will have to vote for a suspension of the rules to pass the ordinance finally, tomorrow night. The ordinance was on second reading when it was last referred to the corporations committee, and it will still be on second reading, and open to amendment, tomorrow night.

W. H. Stevenson will renew his fight to have an amendment inserted providing for a yearly rental of $5,000. Councilman Stevenson expressed surprise yesterday that two of his faction had signed the call. He said he was unable to account for their act, but expressed the opinion that if the ordinance did finally pass common council in its present shape, that it would meet still greater obstacles in select council.

Mayor Hays Leaves City.

On the eve of the renewal of the fight in common council Mayor William B. Hays left the city last night for North Carolina, to be gone 10 days. He has a large timber tract in that state. It was also stated yesterday that his daughter was in the south and was ill, and that the principal object of the mayor's trip was to see her.

The mayor was quoted yesterday as saying that he was still in favor of having the ordinance referred to the city solicitor. "If the ordinance goes through common council it will still have plenty of trouble to meet as it must go through select council yet," he said.

Director Bigelow said yesterday there would be enough votes to suspend the rules and pass the ordinance finally, tomorrow night, and that he believed that the trouble in the lower branch of councils was practically at an end.

TEACHER THREATENED BY AN ANGRY MOB

SWEETZER, IND., July 7.—U. S. Williams, a school teacher, last night attempted to assault one of his pupils, a girl named Bauch, 12 years old. When the girl told her mother a crowd collected and went to the home of Williams, threatening violence, but the sheriff spirited him away and rushed him off to Marion. He was removed from Marion today, because trouble was feared if he remained there tonight.

Polish Lad Locates Relative.

Anton Karowiski, the 16-year-old Polish boy, who traveled from Germany to Pittsburgh alone, has located an uncle in this city through the help of John Lang, immigrant officer at Union station. The boy arrived here a week ago and after Mr. Lang searched the Polish settlements he located the boy's uncle, Joseph Rabineck, who lives at No. 810 Wilmot street, Oakland. Anton's father is living in Chicago.

Parents Charged With Cruelty.

Thomas D. Shuck and his wife of Duquesne will be given a hearing today before Justice of the Peace F. K. Kilgallon of Duquesne on a charge of cruelty to their 7-year-old son, Frank. It is alleged by G. Stanley of the Humane society that the parents keep the boy chained in the cellar and beat him terribly. The parents say the boy is incorrigible.

MRS. SARAH E. McCLOY COMPLAINS OF ACTS OF MOLLIE MAGUIRES

Mrs. Sarah E. McCloy is having more trouble. Yesterday Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe received a letter from her complaining about a gang of alleged Mollie McGuires that have been giving her considerable annoyance. She also reminded the police official that she was a taxpayer and a citizen, and he must give her protection. The letter read as follows:

"Superintendent of Police:

"There is a gang of Mollie McGuires who are following me and attending to my business instead of their own. I am a taxpayer of this city and I want you to keep a lookout for them. Respectfully,

"SARAH E. McCLOY."

Supt. McTighe said he believed that he would try to apprehend the hock seller from whom Mrs. McCloy bought the "Tale of the Mollie McGuires" and lock him up as a general disturber.

Mrs. McCloy was recently adjudged insane by the courts of Allegheny county, and is at present with some relatives in Aspinwall.

CONTESTED SEATS ARE UNDER CONSIDERATION

Allegheny Citizens Caused Mix-up by Taking a Hand in Republican Primaries.

The committee on contested seats of the Republican county committee met yesterday afternoon at the Republican headquarters in Smithfield street, and gave some consideration to the testimony offered in the matter of the contests that are on over 14 of the committee places. Another meeting will be held prior to the meeting of the county committee on Saturday, July 18.

According to the understanding of the members of the contested seat committee, on the day Republican primaries were held in 14 of the districts in Allegheny, the primary election board of the Citizens party assumed the duty of conducting Republican primaries. Of course, the Republicans protested and in every case held meetings of their own. The committeemen selected through these Republican primaries are the ones contesting the seats of those who got credentials from the Citizens' boards.

Col. James M. Guffey holds the key to the fusion situation for the fall campaign. When the Democratic city convention declared for William B. Hays as the Democracy's candidate for city recorder against the wishes of Col. Guffey and his friend, William J. Brennen, Col. Guffey's enemies in the party thought they had sealed the colonel's doom as a Democratic leader, but the recent Democratic primaries resulted in victory for Guffey and Brennen. Any fusion dealings the Citizens party may have with the Democrats will have to go through the hands of Col. Guffey and his friends. Col. Guffey has not declared how he stands as regards fusion, although Mr. Brennen has announced that he himself favors it.

At any rate, Guffey's friends are convinced that the colonel will not consent to fusion unless the Democrats get a larger proportion of the county offices to be fought over than they got last year. The Democrats will insist that they get the district attorneyship, a position that can be used with great political effect, and they also will probably want the shrievalty or the prothonotaryship. The delay in completing a fusion program is due to the difference between the Democrats and the Citizens party regarding the distribution of the offices, and not to any contemplated compromise between the Republicans and the Citizens, as has been rumored.

ATTORNEY MAY ACT AS AN ARBITRATOR

Bricklayers and Stonemasons Preparing for Meeting of Arbitration Board.

From all accounts the stone masons will be permitted to allow the Pittsburgh attorney to serve on the arbitration board to settle the dispute between the bricklayers and stone masons. The executive officials of the Bricklayers and Masons International union will come to Pittsburgh Sunday to take charge of the interests of their union. A committee consisting of members of the stone masons and the bricklayers will secure a hall in which the dispute will be argued before the arbitration board.

Another joint meeting of the executive committees of stone masons and bricklayers will be held Friday. All arrangements will be completed at this meeting preparatory to the sitting of the arbitration board Monday. A more friendly relation is being manifested on both sides and the indications are nothing will prevent the dispute being settled finally next week.

A further step was taken last night in the formation of the new structural trades council. The delegates from the various structural trades appointed to assist in the new organization, discussed the constitution as framed by a committee for that purpose. They will submit the constitution as amended to their respective locals at their next meeting.

STATE DENTISTS MEET.

Dr. Hiram Depuy of Pittsburgh Makes Plea for Development.

WILKESBARRE, July 7.—The annual session of the Pennsylvania State Dental society convened in this city today. Robert H. Jones of Philadelphia delivered his address, in which he said the society was stronger now than at any time in its history. It was the opinion of those who took part in the discussion that more stringent measures should be adopted in Pennsylvania to prevent incompetent persons from engaging in the practice of dentistry.

Dr. Hiram Depuy of Pittsburgh read a paper on "Professional Thoughts, Suggested by State Work." He called attention to the great progress being made in dentistry, the evils that have to be met, the large classes that are annually sent out by the colleges and made an earnest plea for all round development. The great rivalry between schools he looked upon as a stimulant to the profession. He made a plea for the education of the public so as to show the importance of careful attention of the teeth, not only among grown persons, but also among children.

ANOTHER ANTHRACITE DEPOSIT HAS BEEN FOUND

DENVER, COL., July 7.—It is announced that genuine anthracite has been discovered in Routt county, Colorado. The fields are believed to be fully as extensive as those of Pennsylvania.

HASTINGS & HETZEL

Two Prominent Allegheny Officials Enter the Real Estate Business.

The many friends and business associates of Messrs. John G. Hastings and John C. Hetzel will hail with cheer and pleasure their entering the real estate brokerage business. Under the title of Hastings & Hetzel they have opened their business afairs in the Farmers bank building, rooms 512 and 513, fifth floor. The policy of this new firm will be strictly confined to real estate, mortgages and insurance. Both of the associating partners are widely known throughout Western Pennsylvania. Mr. Hastings was for 15 years of the contracting firm of Samuel Hastings & Son, and later delinquent tax collector of Allegheny, succeeding Mr. S. C. Grier. Mr. Hetzel is equally as popular, he having been chief assessor for a period of 10 years, and lawyer of Allegheny city for the past five years. The wide acquaintance of both members, together with their extensive experience, will doubtless obtain for themselves a full and satisfying share of success.

OFF FOR GRAND RAPIDS.

Pickering Will Make Enormous Purchases for Fall Trade.

Mr. Pickering of the big Pittsburgh furniture store at Tenth street and Penn avenue, left Monday evening for Grand Rapids, Mich., to make purchases of furniture for the fall stock. Phenomenal in magnitude as Pickering's purchases have been in the past, Mr. Pickering says this year prepared to buy furniture on a scale that will eclipse all former records. Pickering's business is growing at such an enormous rate that extraordinary preparations are necessary to meet the demands the fall trade will bring.

ALLEGHENY OFFICIAL IS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Charged With Failing to Quarantine Smallpox Case in a Boarding House.

Director Thomas B. Scandrett of the department of public safety of Allegheny is investigating a case of alleged gross negligence on the part of the health bureau, and a clash between Scandrett and Supt. James McLaughlin is threatened.

It was reported to Director Scandrett yesterday that Mabel Smith, the 15-year-old daughter of Fletcher Smith of No. 808 Arch street, had been suffering with smallpox for more than three weeks, and that during that time no guard had been put on the house, and it had never been quarantined. Despite the existence of the disease nine boarders, several of them occupying rooms in the house, had been going in and out daily, and were taking no precautions to guard against spreading the disease.

Dr. J. C. Calhoun, the pest house physician, has been living with the Smith family for months, and it is intimated that because of his influence with Supt. McLaughlin the family has been put to no trouble by any quarantine precautions or officers.

Supt. McLaughlin was asked about the case yesterday, and said there was no danger of the disease spreading, as the sick girl was in one of the rear rooms of the house, and none of the boarders were allowed to go into her room.

Several of the neighbors notified Director Scandrett yesterday, and he was very indignant.

"I have only been informed of this," said Scandrett, "but I am going to see who is at fault. During the past few months I have devoted most of my time to stamping out the smallpox, and at present there are but nine cases in the pest house and three outside. Such a case as has been reported to me cannot be tolerated, no matter what the family's relations or influences may be."

FREE DELIVERY STARTED.

Carrier in Ohio Township Must Cover 20 Miles.

The free delivery of mail will be started in McKees Rocks this morning. Six carriers will distribute mail in the borough. It is expected that the new postoffice building will be ready for occupancy by the end of this month.

Free rural delivery in Ohio township, bordering along Lowrys run and back of Emsworth, was begun yesterday. A carrier from the Allegheny postoffice made the first trip over the new route yesterday and it is reported he covered 20 miles of territory. Only one delivery will be made each day. The carrier yesterday delivered 113 pieces of mail on his round. The new free delivery district has 120 houses and a population of about 600. H. B. Stevens is the only applicant for the position of carrier in the new district, and if he passes the civil service examination he will receive $600 per year.

Bridge Directors Elected.

The following named persons were elected officers and directors of the Union Bridge Company at the stockholders' annual meeting, held yesterday: W. V. Callery, president, in place of James M. Bailey, deceased; Joseph Ford, secretary and superintendent, and George F. Wright, treasurer. The directors are W. V. Callery, S. S. Marvin, D. H. Hostetter, Addison Lysle, F. B. Minick, A. H. Childes, Joseph Ford, Henry R. Rea, John P. Wright, D. C. Byers, Thomas F. Stevenson, J. H. Ricketson, Jr., and J. H. Hespenheide.

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

FAIRMONT, W. VA.—Jacob Tennant, aged 52, a butcher of Ames, was gored to death by a steer.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Mrs. George Williams of 1091 Liberty street has smallpox, the first case of the summer here.

DONORA, PA.—Fire destroyed W. W. Summerville's restaurant and the crying of a baby saved the family from cremation.

SHARON, PA.—Father D. J. Mahoney of Mercer fell while alighting from an Erie passenger train here and fractured his collarbone.

WOOSTER, O.—Mrs. Edward Mause of Massillon, O., and her sisters, Misses Sylvia and Jennie Shoup, were terribly injured in a runaway.

LISBON, O.—The Rev. James Kirkbride of Millport, this county, has received a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church in Columbiana.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Artesian wells are to be drilled at the various school houses here in the effort to supply pure drinking water for the pupils.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The operators of the Shenango tin mill have made a demand for an increase in wages to General Manager George Greer, who has refused it.

GREENVILLE, PA.—The residence of F. W. Taylor was burned by incendiaries. The family was rescued with great difficulty by D. E. Billig, editor of the Greenville News.

SALEM, O.—Mrs. Anna Spaulding, aged 54, of this city, was killed on the street car line crossing the street she was trying to avoid a rearing horse when she jumped in front of a car.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The prisoners in the Mercer county jail are quarantined on account of smallpox. The men arrested in Mercer county will be brought to New Castle until the quarantine is lifted.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Joseph Patterson, an old citizen, was prostrated by the heat at his home and may not recover. Edward Ward of South Ray street was overcome by the heat in the Shenango Valley steel mill.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—County Detective Barnes of Erie arrested John R. W. Haley here on a charge of desertion and non-support, entered by his wife, Mrs. Anna Haley of Butler. The defendant secured bail.

DONORA, PA.—A free bridge across the Monongahela river to connect this town with Webster, in Westmoreland county, is promised. Judge Taylor of Washington county has appointed three viewers to pass upon the proposed site.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Coroner H. E. Blott is of the opinion that the killing of Andrew Sinkovitch with a revolver shot on the Fourth may be more than an accident. Mike Gross, who fired the shot, is under arrest. An inquest has been ordered.

NEW CASTDE, PA.—Charles Black of South Sharon is under bail here, charged with assault and battery by Clara Gilfland, who alleges he attempted to prevent her boarding a train when she wished to leave New Castle for Sharon. Black says the girl is his wife.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Two persons were possibly fatally injured by the use of dynamite at the Sanderson plant of the Republic Iron and Steel Company. Eight-year-old Thomas Gadley was struck by a piece of flying brick and his leg was broken in two places. Mrs. Mary Carmell was also struck by a brick and will probably die.

MONESSEN, PA.—During the progress of a Slavish wedding a fight broke out and the Monessen police force was called to preserve order. When Officer James Laird and John Woolsey reached the scene the crowd attacked them with clubs. Laird arrested two of the belligerents. Woolsey caught two others and the mob gave way.

REV. H. D. LINDSAY DECLINES OFFICE

SUCCESSOR TO DR. JEFFERS

The Rev. Dr. D. Schley Schaff of Cincinnati Elected Professor of Ecclesiastical History and Histiry of Doctrines—Allegheny Pastor Defeated.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Western Theological seminary yesterday afternoon in the Second Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Henry D. Lindsay, pastor of the North Presbyterian church, declined to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the office of president of the institution. In declining, Dr. Lindsay expressed his thanks to the board for the honor, but said he did not care to sever his pleasant relations with his present congregation, a thing that would be necessary if he were to accept the office. No other candidates had been named for the position, and the board decided to allow the matter to go over until the meeting next fall.

The Rev. Davis S. Kennedy, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Allegheny, who was a candidate for the chair of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrines, was not elected, and his defeat by the Rev. Dr. D. Schley Schaff of Lane seminary, Cincinnati, O., caused some surprise. The report of the minority members of the board, asking for the election of Dr. Schaff, was read by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Snowden, editor of the Presbyterian Banner. Dr. Schaff will succeed the Rev. Dr. William H. Jeffers, who resigned at the meeting last June.

The Rev. D. Schley Schaff is a son of the late Dr. Philip Schaff, D. D., LL. D., who was the most prolific religious author in America up until the time of his death. The elder Schaff was born in Switzerland, but came to this country prior to the Civil war. He was professor of church history at Union Theological seminary of New York, from which his son, D. Schley Schaff, graduated. Dr. Schaff first preached in a Presbyterian church in Kansas City, and was later called to Lane seminary, Cincinnati. Dr. Schaff will assume his new duties when the seminary opens in October.

STOCKS SOLD OFF ON BREAK IN STEEL

Before This Movement Railroad Shares Had Ruled Strong—The Money Market Remained Easy, Despite the Exports of Gold.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

Up until within a half hour of the close yesterday the eastern stock market ruled dull but strong. In the closing half hour a break in United States Steel common on heavy offerings depressed the entire list, and a number of stocks closed at the lowest prices of the day. The principal selling of United States Steel was by a broker who often represents Rockefeller and Gould interests, and the inference was that some inkling of the quarterly report had gotten out and that the movement was discounting an unfavorable showing. Up until the market closed the street had nothing more tangible regarding the report than a rumor that the earnings for the quarter would show a falling off of $2,000,000 compared with the corresponding period last year. The latter was the best quarter in the history of the corporation, the earnings reaching $47,662,000. A decrease from this total would not be regarded as improbable in view of the prolonged strike in the building trades, which has delayed the delivery of structural material. United States Steel common broke from 30¾ to 29⅛ and the preferred from 81⅞ to 80¾, and both closed at the lowest, representing a shrinkage in market value of about $10,000,000 on the entire capital within less than an hour. Long after the close of the market the figures for the quarter's business was given out, showing that the earnings for the three months, June partly estimated, aggregated $36,499,528, a decrease of $1,162,589 from the corresponding quarter last year. It was also announced that the directors had declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1 per cent on the common and 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock. The other industrials sold off in the closing half hour, with the exception of Amalgamated Copper. The latter had sold down to 52⅛ in the early dealings, but when Steel was the weakest Amalgamated was the strongest, recovering to 53¼ and closing within a fraction of the top.

The general market had entirely ignored the export of $2,750,000 gold, and after opening slightly lower in response to the selling by London advanced steadily up to 2 o'clock. The leaders in the upward movement were Missouri Pacific, St. Paul, Reading and the Erie. The two first named were favorably affected by the weather reports, which represented ideal conditions in the west. The coolers were affected by the reports on the condition of the trade, and also by the revival of talk regarding the probable action of the Erie directors at their meeting today on the dividend question. An incident of the day which was regarded as favorable to the stock market was the further break in cotton. The latter sold off an additional half cent and at one time presented a panicky condition of the bulls of the staple. The close was near the low and prices are now nearer a normal than for months. The advance in wheat, corn and oats was looked upon as a natural reaction from the recent break than as reflecting any unfavorable change in crop conditions, although the latter late in the day were somewhat conflicting. One of the trade authorities placed the probable yield of wheat at 740,000,000 bushels, but at the same time there were estimates of 1,900,000,000 bushels of corn, as against 2,500,000,000 bushels last year. It is manifestly too early in the season to make any reliable estimate on the yield of corn; the best that can be done is to base calculations upon the acreage, and these are not wholly reliable. The Iowa state report was published during the day and estimated a condition of 77 and a reduction of 13 per cent in the acreage of corn, which had some effect in stiffening the price of the grain, but had little effect in depressing the price of the corn-carrying roads. It is expected that the government report, due on Friday, will show a low condition and reduced acreage in Missouri, another great corn state. Wall street is now watching the crop conditions as closely as Chicago grain traders—in fact the interest of the business community centers in this subject—and pending definite information relating thereto, little can be expected of the stock market. One of the weakest of the railroads was New York Central, which declined 1½ per cent to 125 and closed at the lowest. The old comparison is instituted between New York Central, a 5 per cent stock, and Pennsylvania, a 6 per cent stock, and the argument is revived that New York Central should not sell above Pennsylvania. The decline in the coal stocks in the late dealings suggested a doubt as to whether expectations in regard to the Erie dividends would be fulfilled today. St. Paul was the only prominent stock which retained any considerable portion of its gain at the close. The total transactions reached only 236,000 shares.

Call money rates were a shade firmer yesterday, ruling at 3@3½ per cent, but time money was easier and at one time was offered at 4¾ per cent. The probabilities are that additional exports of gold will be made tomorrow; but inasmuch as the movement from the Klondike has begun, $450,000 having been transferred from the Pacific coast to New York this week, and the announcement was made that $1,500,000 had left Sydney for San Francisco, there is a feeling that the one movement will offset the other, and that the actual amount of available funds will not be reduced by the gold now going to Europe. Here in Pittsburgh there was a slightly easier feeling in the money market, and after Friday of this week, when the dividends of the largest local corporations will be paid, a still easier condition is looked for.

The local stock market yesterday was the narrowest for many weeks, for while the number of shares changing hands showed a slight increase over the day before, the transactions were confined to only a score of securities, and in several cases represented insignificant amounts. The only time at which there was any sign of life was just before the close, when the decline in United States Steel in the eastern market developed some workable orders in the local market. The range on the stock here was not so wide as in the east, the lowest for the common stock being 29⅜, and at one time 29¾ was bid for 500 shares. Only 45 shares of the preferred changed hands at 81¼, and the stock closed offered at 81⅝. Pittsburgh Coal common was the most active stock, 700 shares selling at 28⅛@28¼, closing at 28 bid, 28¼ asked. The preferred stock was nominally unchanged at 87. River Coal common and preferred remained dull and unchanged. National Fire Proofing common declined to 24½, while the preferred advanced to 86½. Manufacturers Light and Heat remained steady and unchanged at 89¼. Only 25 shares Westinghouse Electric at 95 unchanged hands all day. Air Brake was offered at 137. The dealings in bank and trust company stocks were the lightest for any day this year. Only three issues were traded in and the total sales reached only 50 shares. A small lot of Commonwealth Trust sold at 235, a decline of 3 per cent, while Dollar Savings Fund and Trust advanced 1 per cent to 341 and Real Estate Trust advanced 1½ per cent to 294½, closing at 295 bid. There were few quotations on the remainder of the list and these showed no change of note.

Condition of National Banks.

As bearing upon the general money market the following table will be of interest, as showing the percentage of legal reserves to deposit liabilities of national banks at all the reserve cities. In these percentages the comptroller of the currency computes the cash reserve as under the strict requirements of the national bank act, which limits the portion of a country bank's cash holdings which may be redeposited in other banks and still reckoned as a legal reserve of the depositing institutions:

Bond Market Continues Slow.

On the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday a block of $50,000 Union Switch & Signal 5s and United States Steel 5s, series D, were offered at 112. There were no bids for either. New York advices were to the effect that the general bond market continues very unsatisfactory, the sales yesterday amounting to only $1,035,000. It was reported that persistent liquidation was apparent even in first-class issues, the theory being that certain interests having liquidated all their active stocks were now compelled to part with their investment securities to protect their holdings of unmarketable "underwriting." Among the Wall street reports current yesterday was to the effect that the Lehigh Valley management would make a large issue of bonds to provide the means for improvements. This probably had something to do with the depression in some of the coal stocks at the close.

According to the United States Investor, bonds for the month of June amounted to $18,071,910, not including temporary loans. Of the above amount $13,760,372 were issued by cities and towns, $1,168,838 by counties and $2,040,000 by a state. This amount shows a decrease of $6,600,700 from the $24,672,610 reported for the month of May, and a decrease of $12,172,848.78 from the $27,244,224.44 reported for the month of June, 1902.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The dealings in local bank and trust stocks yesterday were smaller than for any day in weeks past. Only three issues were dealt in, and a fewer number of stocks were quoted in this department than for a long time past. There is a well-grounded belief that a considerable amount of this class of stock is carried on margin, there having been more speculation during the last year than for many years. Some very conservative people have thought that there must be liquidation here before the end of the year, and that if any boom was inaugurated with the consummation of the pending deal, the opportunity would be seized to unload speculative holdings. The fact that there has been no stock forced upon the market during the recent stringency is taken as evidence that holders have been under no special duress.

The first installment is due on Friday to subscriptions to the new stock of the Union Switch & Signal Company. It was reported that payments were already being received on account, and that in many instances subscriptions for shipments of engines the company for June was 100 per cent larger than for June last year, and for the six months of 1903 the orders booked were 50 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding period last year.

According to fourth avenue gossip, negotiations are still pending for the acquisition of a controlling interest in the Clairton Steel plant by the United States Steel Corporation. The market, however, indicates that the public is taking little interest in the matter.

Reciprocal demurrage is one of the features of a new Virginia law, under which a "mileage detention charge" is created, with power to prescribe a schedule of detention charges to be paid by the railroads to the consignees in case of delay in delivery, or when shipments are held unreasonably long in the line at the station where they originate. The commission also is empowered to prescribe rules regarding the placing of empties, and a schedule of detention charges to be paid by the railroads to consignors when cars are not placed for loading in accordance with the rules. In compliance with the act the commission has established car service rules that place the transportation of freight on an equitable basis. Railroads are given three days to furnish cars after requisition has been made by shipper, at the end of which time, if the car has not been provided, the railroad is required to notify the shipper a penalty of $1 per day. Shippers are allowed 48 hours in which to load cars, and additional time at the rate of $1 per day. If loaded cars are held more than 48 hours after the expiration of the free time, the company may consider the car released and collect $2 demurrage. If the car is detained by order of shipper or consignee the shipper is required to pay $1 per day demurrage. After a consignment has been started the railroad must keep it moving at the rate of 100 miles per day, or pay a penalty of $1 per day. Failure to notify the receiver promptly of the arrival of the car at destination subjects the railroad to a similar penalty. The railroad must place the car for unloading immediately upon arrival, or pay the penalty of $1 per 24 hours for delay.

A break of 9 points in Standard Rope & Twine 6s was due to-day as the interest would not be paid. This, with a break of 5⅛ in United Cast Iron Pipe and of less amounts in some minor industrials, and the weakness of Metropolitan Traction stocks on the curb, were unsettling influences on the Wall street speculation.

In its recent application to have added to the unlisted department of the New York stock exchange new preferred and common stock, the National Biscuit Company makes the following statement of gross and net earnings since organization:

Year end. Jan. 31.	Sales.	Earnings.
1899	$34,913,800	$3,202,143
1900	76,031,900	8,942,125
1901	75,439,100	8,218,255
1902	78,625,178	8,470,445
1903	40,221,920	3,980,338

The convertible 2½s of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, selling at 95¾, are worth a little study. If a holder invested $7,000 in the bonds at par they are now worth but $7,125. The holder has an option of converting the bonds into stock at $70 per share next May, or on any interest period thereafter on 30 days' notice. One hundred shares at present cost would be worth about $5,300, or only $437 50 less than the market value of the bonds. The income on 100 shares, however, would be $200 per annum or $35 more than the interest on the bonds. The buyer of the bonds in the market at 95¾ obtains a return of 3 63-100 per cent on his investment. The bonds only have 16 years to run from May 1, 1902, and after May 1, 1904, they may be called at 102½ and interest. Hence there may be a profit to the buyer at current prices.—Philadelphia News Bureau.

SALE OF NORTH SIDE PROPERTY

The Herron-Fairman Corner Is Bought for $125,000 by Local Man.

TWO FIFTH AVENUE DEALS

New Yorker in Pittsburgh With a Long Island Project—Farm in West Penn Brings $75,000—Big Price Paid for Penn Township Land.

The Herron-Fairman property, at the northeast corner of Federal street and Stockton avenue, Allegheny, has been resold for a price approximating $125,000. Three weeks ago it was bought for $115,000 by W. F. Weitershausen and Louis C. Bahl. The titles are now being examined preparatory to turning the property over to a Pittsburgh business man who takes it for an investment. The corner is considered one of the best, if not the most desirable, business corners in Allegheny, being directly across from the site of the new Ft. Wayne station. As the lot measures only 40x60 feet, the price paid is at the rate of $3,125 a foot for the Federal street frontage, or $52 85 a square foot, a record figure for Allegheny property on the latter basis. The building on the lot is a three-story brick, the first floor of which is occupied by Spandau & Spandau, gents' furnishers. Since the widening of Stockton avenue on the west side of Federal street there has been a noticeable increase in the inquiries for property all along this street, which, when the railroad improvements now assured are finished, will be one of the best business streets in the city.

Two Sales Out Fifth Avenue.

Through H. M. Berman of the Merchants Savings and Trust Company No. 1632 Fifth avenue has been sold for $21,000. The late owner was Meyer Rosenthal, who bought the property only a few weeks ago, and now conveys it to Samuel Goldstein of Allegheny. It consists of a three-story brick store and dwelling on lot 20x100 feet.

Another Fifth avenue sale just closed is that of No. 311, lately owned by Ellen G. Buchanan, and bought by Attorney W. L. Sloan, for $36,500. The deal was made through the Fifth Avenue Realty Company. The lot measures 23x114 feet on the north side of the avenue, near Federal street, and is improved with a three-story brick business block.

Thomas MacConnell has sold to Marcus Aaron a residence property, 100x170 feet, in the west side of Wineb1ddle avenue, near Friendship avenue, Twentieth ward, for $15,500.

John K. Williams has bought two properties in the Twelfth ward for $13,000. One of them, purchased from Mary M. Hague for $9,000, is an improved lot, 60x72 feet, at the northwest corner of Twenty-ninth and Smallman streets. The other lot measures 30x72 feet in the west side of Twenty-ninth street, near Smallman street, and was bought from Julius Mackwelitz and others for $4,000.

Inviting Proposition on Long Island.

A New York real estate man was at the offices of the Commonwealth Real Estate Trust Company yesterday with a proposition which shows that local investors are getting a reputation "down east" for knowing a good thing when they see it. The New Yorker had secured options on 925 acres of land on Long Island and was here interesting local capitalists in a proposition to develop it. The property is in Queens borough, near Jamaica, and within a short distance of the Long Island steam railroad, which runs up the island. It is on what is known as the backbone of the island. The important feature of the location from a realty standpoint is that it is almost directly on the line of the tunnel street car road, which is being built under the East river. By this route, it is said, the distance to the city can be accomplished in 20 minutes. Most of the Long Island farms have been optioned lately with the hope of profiting by this improvement, which will open up a large territory to lot men, and the few remaining tracts are held at a high figure, as a large part of the surrounding land is already being prepared for the market.

Coal Farm Sold for $75,000.

Capt. Alfred Hicks of this city has added to his extensive holdings along the Kiskiminetas River by the purchase of the Stewart farm of about 160 acres for $75,000. The deal was made by Findley & Taylor of Freeport. The property has been in the Stewart family for 70 years, and is at the junction of the West Penn and Allegheny Valley railroads and between the Allegheny and Kiskiminetas rivers. It is all underlaid with coal, which is included in the purchase. This deal gives Capt. Hicks an unbroken line of property 16 miles long, extending from the Allegheny river to Sealer run east of Apollo, all of which fronts on the West Penn railroad and the Kiskiminetas river, making it especially desirable for manufacturing sites. On the Westmoreland county side he has eight miles of property fronting on the same river. He has lately bought the Watt, McDougal, McCrum, McClintock and Steel heirs' coal holdings at McKeean station, on the Allegheny Valley railroad. Besides the five coal mines now in operation on his property on the Westmoreland side of the river and three mines on the Armstrong county side,

TWICE A VICTIM OF CLEVER THIEF

Animal Trainer's Apartments at Atlantic City Pay Double Toll.

IS MYSTERY FOR THE POLICE

With Startling Impudence the Marauder Returns After Discovery of First Robbery and Commits Another—Honeymoon Girls Invited to Enter Lion's Den.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Young's Ocean Pier, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.

One of the chief sources of excitement on the pier here today was the robbery of Mlle. Dorine of the Bostock wild animal exhibit. Mlle. Dorine, who does a startling act with leopards, lives in the animal house with her proteges. She has an apartment fitted up in the rear of the arena with the cages and last evening quite late she found it necessary to leave the place for a short time in order to execute some commissions. She left the side door to the cages slightly open so she might easily get in. She was gone but 20 minutes and when she came back she discovered the door locked on the inside.

Mlle. Dorine obtained the services of a small boy and got him to climb through the window and unfasten the door. When she entered her room she found her trunks smashed open and the contents scattered about in confusion. She raised an alarm and the police were sent for. They were at a loss for a clue for a time, but are now working upon the theory that some one employed upon the pier was responsible for the theft. The goods taken were of the value of $300, consisting mainly of jewelry. Some dresses used by Mlle. Dorine also disappeared.

Hardly had the excitement over this subsided, and while the police were investigating, the telephone bell in police headquarters rang hastily and the police were informed that at noon exactly another robbery had been committed in the same place and further expensive garments taken. This made the case more tangled than ever and the police are now at sea.

Actors Afraid of the Animals.

Speaking of the Bostock show a rather unique invitation was issued by Mme. De Alma, the lion tamer, this afternoon. She invited any member of the "Chinese Honeymoon" company now in the city to accompany her into the den and remain while she put her pets through their performance. So far, however, there has been no wild rush to take advantage of the opportunity to see the monarchs of the jungle at such close quarters.

Entries for the Horse Show.

Two hundred nominations in excess of last year's entries for the annual exhibition of the Atlantic City Horse Show association, predict the best display of horse flesh ever seen in the United States. The show opens on Tuesday, July 14, and will continue until the following Saturday, inclusive. Nearly 600 entries have been received.

...y of Fish being Caught.

...eakfish and croakers are becoming very plentiful now and several large catches were made yesterday and today by parties who went out in yachts from the Inlet. It is rather early for outside fishing, but it is evident that the schools of fish have come to stay until cold weather.

Dagney's Body Recovered.

The body of Thomas Dagney of Philadelphia, who was drowned last Friday night, was recovered at Iowa avenue last night. Louis F. Merkle, who saw Mr. Dagney drown, was pushing a chair down the boardwalk a short distance from the place where the unfortunate man went down, and surmising that the corpse was that of Dagney, he leaped into the water and securing the body brought it ashore. Mr. Dagney was the publisher of a medical journal.

ELKS OUT FOR FUN.

Great Carnival to Be Held in Kennywood Park Today—A Lively Program.

Elks will browse and cavort generally in Kennywood park today. It will be the first open-air event given by Pittsburgh lodge, No. 11, and its 1,900 members. There is to be a baseball game between the fat men and the lean men. A running race of 100 yards between the two fattest men, two biggest men of No. 11, and a 100-yard race between the two oldest members in the lodge. Two bands have ben engaged, one for concert and music and one for dancing. Dancing will begin at 2 o'clock and finish at 11.

Visitors who wish to attend the Elks' picnic and gain admission to the dancing pavilion, can obtain invitations at the Elks' temple, Fifth avenue and Jumonville street, or from any member of the order. Special cars will be run from the park to Pittsburgh between the hours of 11 and 11:30 p. m. to bring the Elks and their friends back to the city.

Delegations from Homestead, McKeesport lodge, Monongahela City, Charleroi, Monessen, Carnegie, Tarentum and Allegheny lodge, No. 339, will help to make the affair a success.

Exalted Ruler E. J. Small of Pittsburgh lodge has appointed the following committee to take charge of affairs at the park: M. G. Livingston, chairman; F. S. Newberry, Saul Susman, J. E. O'Donnell, Ferd. Fuhrer, Thomas E. Campbell, H. G. Adams, H. W. Morrow, Fred L. Urben, Lee Susman, W. J. Nickel, F. H. Mellon, E. J. Joyce, J. P. Dunlevy, H. J. W. Ruhlandt, Thomas Quinn, H. T. CROSBY FOUND TO BE INNOCENT

Did Not Burn Mignonette Street House Which Resulted in Boy's Death.

KOUNTZ MAY ASK NEW TRIAL

Cannot Be Convicted of a Higher Grade Than Voluntary Manslaughter for Killing Contractor Walsh—Effort to Partition Letitia Robinson's Estate.

In criminal court yesterday John Crosby was found not guilty of the charge of involuntary manslaughter, made against him as a result of the death of Alexander Wallace, a 7-year-old boy, who was burned to death in his home at No. 5811 Mignonette street, East End, on May 15 last. The jury took an hour to reach a conclusion. Attorneys McElroy & Mevay represented Crosby.

Attorneys Clarence Burleigh, R. H. Jackson and Chauncey Lobinger, who represent Dr. Walter P. Kountz, will have to file an application for a new trial today or permit the verdict of voluntary manslaughter to stand. The general rules of court provide that motions for new trials must be made within four days after conviction, holidays and Sundays not counted. Kountz was convicted last Friday of killing Contractor John E. Walsh and the four days will not have ended until tonight.

All authorities and the supreme courts of Pennsylvania and many other states hold that a person once convicted of a lesser degree of crime than charged in the indictment no higher degree can result, as the conviction is an acquittal of the higher grades. Attorneys Marron and Brennen cite many cases to sustain this position, and it is possible that under these circumstances an application for a new trial will be made today.

Oscar W. Brown pleaded guilty to embezzling $350 from the American Foundry and Construction Company, by whom he was employed as a bookkeeper. Sentence was deferred for the present.

An appeal was taken from the decision of Justice George W. Giles of Mifflin township in fining G. A. Dodge $25 and costs, under the law of 1794. Dodge is the general manager of the amusement features at Kennywood park.

A bill in equity was filed by the Fidelity Title and Trust Company against Gerald O. H. Robinson and others, heirs of the late Mrs. Letitia Robinson, who died on November 23, 1900, asking for a partition of the real estate left by the decedent. The property is in the First, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards, Allegheny, and is very valuable.

Mrs. Robinson left a will in which the greater part of her estate was left to ex-Congressman John B. Robinson, her son. The will was broken and the property was ordered to be divided under the intestate laws, which order resulted in the partition proceedings.

The South Side Trust Company was appointed trustee for the estate of Sophie Gruber.

George A. Lasbell filed a bill in equity against the borough of Coraopolis and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company asking that a certain ordinance be declared illegal and void, and that the railroad company be restrained from occupying Third avenue in that borough. The borough, by ordinance, gave the company the right to cross certain streets, among them the avenue named, upon which the plaintiff owns a frontage of 50 feet. It is alleged that the ordinance does not give the company the right to change the grade of the street, but that it is doing this without authority.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

Abraham B. Goewey sued Walker W. Elderkin for $2,000 damages, as the result of a property deal in which the plaintiff alleges that he was misrepresented.

A divorce has been granted Mrs. Mary M. Graham against William R. Graham, a river contractor. Infidelity was charged and Elisabeth Maxwell was named as co-respondent.

Alderman Thomas Edgar entered suit against H. A. McVain for damages for alleged slander and a capias was issued for the arrest of the defendant. It is alleged that the defendant falsely stated that the plaintiff "stole $5 60 off" the defendant in a case the latter had before him.

The board of school directors of Penn township made application to common pleas court No. 2 for the appointment of a sanitary agent. Dr. A. A. Johnston had been appointed to the position for a term of 30 days, but this time has expired and another case of smallpox had appeared in the township.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States district court by Katherine Trautman and others, asking that the Stone-Scantlin Company of No. 23 Lacock street, Allegheny, be declared a bankrupt. The petitioners are creditors of the company, and it is alleged it has stated its inability to pay.

INSTRUCTION IN FISHERMAN'S ART

Chautauqua Lecturer Dwells Upon the Delights of Angling.

ISAAK WALTON AN EXAMPLE

Great Angler Found Peace, Comfort and Happiness in the Pastime, Which Is Recommended to Students of Nature as Healthful and Interesting.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 7.—It is quite a coincidence that at this time when Chautauqua lake fish are biting and being landed in an unprecedented manner that the particular theme of the nature study course of lectures should be Izaak Walton, that king of anglers. The speaker today was Prof. Anna B. Comstock of Corneli university and her subject was "Izaak Walton, a Type of Nature Study." This lecture was largely attended by the male portion of the population, many of whom had tried their luck on the lake earlier in the day and were seeking solace as their respective cases required.

Prof. Comstock began by saying: "When fishing, be patient, forbear swearing lest you be heard and catch no fish. Fishing is an art, or at least it is an art to catch a fish, an art worthy of the knowledge and practice of a wise man. The question is whether you can learn it or not, for angling is somewhat like poetry. Men are born so.

"For those who must work when they rest, there is no diversion today so popular or so helpful as fishing. It is fortunate that the number of fish caught does not materially affect the sport. All true devotees of the art agree that the fascination of the sport is not so much catching fish as fishing. Unfortunately not all anglers understand the advantages of going fishing as did Izaak Walton. Our greatest angler found in it peace, comfort and happiness. He was given over to sane, wholesome thinking and was possessed with true love of nature and the keenest appreciation of the beautiful. In his study of living creatures, through the practice of his art, he oftimes forgot his art in his admiration for nature's cunning workmanship. He was a believer in true temperance. The angler of today pays little heed to his constant teaching. 'Hide your bottle of drink under the hollow root of yonder sycamore tree; drink from that bottle with moderation and restrain its use to the mealtime.'"

Prof. W. D. MacClintock of Chicago university gave the second lecture in his course in literature by discussing the "Nonsense of Literature," which he defines as mental play and as necessary for the mind as relaxation is for the muscles of the body.

CUMMINS IS BOOMED FOR VICE PRESIDENCY

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(Special.)—Gov. Cummins is being boomed by his friends for second place on the ticket with Roosevelt. An autograph letter from Gov. Cummins has been seen in Washington in which the governor states his willingness to accept the vice presidential nomination in case it is desired by the leaders of his party. Gov. Cummins does not announce his candidacy, but makes it clear that he would run if invited.

Considering the Constitution.

CINCINNATI, July 7.—The American Flint Glass Workers' union seated its 225 delegates today, refusing a seat to but one delegate, from Philadelphia, where the local lodge is said to be financially delinquent. Amendments to the constitution occupied the time today.

Government Officials Arrested.

MANILA, July 7.—Customs Inspector Coates and Lieut. Osborne, constabulary supply officers, both stationed at San Fernando, have been arrested on the charge of misappropriating government funds.

To Look Well

your blood must be pure to give your complexion that peculiar freshness which can only be obtained when your system is in good working order. Beecham's Pills will put you in condition.

Society Women

are just as susceptible to the ills of womankind as are their less favored sisters, but owing to their inherent distaste for advertised articles will resort to all other methods for a cure first.

Yet it is a fact worth recording that Mrs. Pinkham is constantly receiving letters from women of high social position, saying as a last resort and without any faith, they tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and were completely cured by it. She actually has thousands of such letters as the following:

Mrs. Ida Roser, grand-niece of the late U. S. President James K. Polk, relates her happy experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have been married for nearly two years, and so far have not been blessed with a child. I have, however, suffered with a complication of female troubles and painful menstruation, until very recently.

"The value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was called to my attention by an intimate friend, whose life had simply been a torture with inflammation and ulceration, and a few bottles of your Compound cured her; she can hardly believe it herself to-day, she enjoys such blessed health. I took four bottles of your Compound and consider myself cured. I am once more in fine health and spirits; my domestic and official duties all seem easy now, for I feel so strong I can do three times what I used to do. You have a host of friends in Denver, and among the best count, Yours very gratefully,

MRS. IDA L. ROSER, 326 E. 18th Ave., Denver, Col.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

No other person has had so wide an experience with the ills of women, nor such a record of success, as Mrs. Pinkham has had. Every sick woman should profit by Mrs. Pinkham's advice. Write to-day. Tell her all. It may save your life.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letter and signature of above testimonial, which will prove its absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
